NEW MONARCH

CHARLES TIED TO YOGA; MADE 10 TRIPS TO INDIA

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

FAR from being an outspoken prince, sharing his views on various issues like climate change as he was earlier, King Charles III is now expected to clam up so as to discharge the inherited responsibility of monarchy he has been prepping for decades. Yet, his association and delightful memories of India are mutual, as they span multiple decades.

Charles has been to India 10 times so far. His last trip was in 2019, when he also rang in his 71st birthday. The visit was billed as a celebration of India-UK ties.

Apart from holding strong views on sustainable markets, climate and social finance, Charles is connected with Ayurveda and Yoga. In April 2018, he hosted Prime Minister Narendra Modi at the Science Museum in London to launch a new Ayurvedic Centre of Excellence, aimed at creating a first-of-its-kind global network for evidence-based research on Yoga and Ayurveda. His wife Camilla, now the Queen Consort, is also believed to practice Yoga.

One of his most talked about trips was to Bombay in 1980, when he was 32. As he stepped into a Bollywood studio, he was greeted by actor Padmini Kolhapure with a peck. The cheeky welcome made international headlines. He landed in Bombay from Orissa where he spent a few days as state guest.

During a subsequent trip to Mumbai in 2003, Charles met the famous dabbawalas and was intrigued by their super efficient lunchbox delivery system in Mumbai. A couple of years later, he invited the dabbawalas as a guest to his second wedding with Camilla Parker. The dabbawalas fondly recall they had breakfast with Queen Elizabeth II in Windsor Castle during that trip. Geo-political and intra-family headaches apart, monarchy comes with truly extraordinary perks. After his coronation, Charles will have rights like travelling without a passport, driving without a licence and owning all the mute swans in the UK. P12

Wary veterans cautious on LAC pullback

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

WHILE disengagement of Indian and Chinese troops in the Gogra-Hot Springs stand-off area along the Line of Actual Control in Eastern Ladakh is on, retired Army officers on Friday warned not to read too much into it. It is disengagement, not de-escalation, they pointed out, adding the trust deficit created by Chinese action in Ladakh will take years before it can be bridged.

They saw an element of geopolitics in the development as also an attempt to create a conducive situation for Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chinese President Xi Jinping to meet at the forthcoming Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) Summit.

The disengagement process started at 8.30 am on Thursday and will be over by Monday.

"We shouldn't take it as done deal; at the most it's half done as forces remain in the area," a source said. While troops and equipment are being pulled back from their eyeball-to-eyeball positions, they will be stationed at a mutually agreed safe distance away from the LAC like it happened at Pangong Tso. It is not de-escalation. "Yet, the pullback is better as it reduces the possibility of clashes," he added.

Defence analyst Maj Gen S B Asthana (Retd) said, "it is meant to lower the temperature to ensure the SCO meeting goes through. We should not be reading too much into it." There is no official word yet on a Modi-Xi bilateral.

India showed a fair amount of strength by refusing to normalise ties before the stand-off is addressed, he said. "China wants to show that Asians are okay with each other. They don't want to give the impression that the situation could escalate," he added.

Lt Gen D S Hooda (Retd) opined that "old confidence building measures have been breached, which will require revisiting them to build some kind of trust... I don't see a thinning of troops as nobody will take the chance of getting surprised again."

He also cautioned about China's game on the economic and digital domains. "Land encroachment is visible, but economic and digital are not even being contested, and are more dangerous. They follow a strategy of incremental encroachment even there."

Lt Gen P J S Pannu (Retd) said "China would not want to push us into the US fold." Foreign minister S Jaishankar had in June ticked off Europe, saying India is capable of handling its relations with China.

48-year-old man trampled to death by elephant

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mudigere

A plantation labourer was trampled to death by an elephant near Oorubage in Mudigere taluk on Thursday evening. The victim, who was hearing impaired, has been identified Arjun (48). Hundreds of local residents gathered at the spot of the incident and protested against the forest department for its alleged inaction.

Arjun, who worked at Oorubage Coffee Estate, was a bachelor. He also did not have any family members. After finishing work at 6 pm, he was returning to the plantation owner's house when a rogue elephant went berserk on the main road and killed him.

The elephant even charged at the crowd that gathered at the spot making them run for their lives. The Gonibeedu police and forest officials later arrived at the scene.

It may be recalled that another person, Anand Devadiga of Kenjige village, was killed by an elephant in the same region about a month ago.

Villagers say there are about four elephants moving in a herd that have destroyed coffee estates, paddy fields, houses, gates and vehicles. The locals say they have been living in fear and are terrified to step out of their homes. They complain that their repeated demands to the government to take action have fallen on deaf ears.

Gadkari proposes skybuses for B'luru, says project report in three months

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

UNION Minister for Roads and Highways Nitin Gadkari on Friday informed that an international consultant will be asked to study the traffic congestion of IT capital Bengaluru and submit a preliminary report in three months on the feasibility of implementing either sky bus or trolley bus operation.

"Since the land acquisition is a tough task to expand mass rapid transport, skybuses as operational in places like Singapore could be a solution and we will extend financial help. Bengaluru is an important city of the country and houses research institutes, besides being an IT hub. We are looking at the city's traffic congestion seriously and trying to find solutions. If one lakh people travel by skybuses, it will certainly decongest traffic", he said at a press conference on the sidelines of a two-day national conference 'Manthan - Idea to Action', held in the city.

Union Minister for Roads and Highways Nitin Gadkari in conversation with Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai in Bengaluru on Friday

International agencies like Doppelmayr of Austria and Puma of France are likely to be approached to conduct the study, he disclosed.

Gadkari however admitted that there were shortcomings in constructing drains on the Bengaluru-Mysuru Express Highway which he said will be rectified. "It is also true that unprecedented heavy rain caused the deluge as the project was implemented based on the average rainfall of five years. I admit that the system should have been strong enough to withstand even the unprecedented situation with precasting in place", he said. After the project is completed, Prime Minister Narendra Modi will be requested to inaugurate the highway, he added. P6

Two years on, journalist Kappan gets bail

SHRUTTI KAKKAR @New Delhi

AFTER languishing in jail for nearly two years, Kerala journalist Siddique Kappan, who was arrested by the Uttar Pradesh Police on October 5, 2020, en-route to Hathras to cover a story on the gang-rape of a Dalit woman, was on Friday granted bail by the Supreme Court.

The bench was hearing a petition by Kappan, challenging the Allahabad High Court's August 2 order denying bail. Kappan was charged under various sections of the UAPA. Kappan argued that the HC failed to take note of the fact that the FIR against him ex-facie does not make the case for invocation of Section 17 (punishment for raising funds for terrorist act) and 18 (punishment for conspiracy) of the UAPA.

Senior advocate Mahesh Jethmalani appearing for UP government claimed Kappan had attended a Popular Front of India meeting in September 2020 wherein it was decided that the group's members will incite riots. Jethmalani alleged that on October 5, 2020 Kappan and others decided to go to Hathras to incite riots.

On Jethmalani arguing that propaganda material was found in Kappan's possession, Chief Justice of India U U Lalit observed that every person has the right to free expression.

HC tells BDA to web-host Arkavathy Layout details

'Authority a statutory body, must maintain transparency in functioning'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

OBSERVING that Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) should maintain transparency in its functioning, the Karnataka High Court directed it to web-host all details of Arkavathy Layout with satellite imagery, taking assistance of e-governance and other departments.

A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Alok Aradhe and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty issued the direction to BDA to web-host Arkavathy Layout details, while disposing of two appeals filed by BDA against the order dated August 2, 2022, passed by the single judge, with regard to transparency.

Modifying the orders of the single judge, the court said, "We find that BDA is a statutory body, which deals with the public... Directions issued by the single judge have raised an issue of seminal importance with regard to transparency in the functioning of BDA... It is required to maintain transparency in its functioning and web-host all details of layouts formed by it".

However, court said details contained in the order of the single judge in respect of various layouts formed by BDA, have to be done in a phased manner. Taking into account the issue of public importance involved, court said, "We direct the Registry to register this matter as a suo motu public interest litigation."

BDA CAN AUCTION CORNER SITES

Modifying the interim order dated May 31, 2022, passed by the single judge, the court said BDA should reserve three sites for the petitioners and notify the same. It also gave liberty to the BDA to auction any site, including corner sites in Arkavathy Layout

- Total extent of land notified in the preliminary and final notification with graphic description by overlaying it with village map/Google map
- Total no. of denotified sites with reasons, along with map
- Extent of land taken possession, handed over to engineering dept

Clean up Mahadevapura: CM to babus

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommain on Friday instructed BBMP officials to remove silt from drains and roads and to spray bleaching powder in the Mahadevapura zone, which was severely affected during recent floods.

Several areas in Mahadevapura were submerged due to the heaviest rainfall in 72 years, affecting the lives of the poor and the rich. The government has now vowed to make the tech hub "flood-free" by next monsoon.

Bommai asked Bescom to fix the electrical lines and transformers that were damaged and BWSSB to clear water from apartments and residential complexes.

The plight of the people seems to continue as slum dwellers at Munnekolalu have sought financial and medical help from the public, alleging that government officials had not visited them.

The severe flooding in most parts of Bengaluru had grabbed national headlines, while TV Mohandas Pai, who is the chairman of Manipal Global Education, had tweeted, highlighting the plight of Bengalureans and tagged Prime Minister Narendra Modi. He had sought accountability for the investments made in infrastructure development projects in the city. Pai had tweeted, "Sir pl help Bengaluru, our streets have debris, garbage, drains are blocked... Does all this need more money or better governance? Our Metro is behind schedule, There is total mismanagement, Pl review our Major projects," After much criticism, Bommai had visited flood-hit areas of Mahadevapura, Whitefield and Sarjapur, and assessed the situation.

Delimitation of wards: MLA moves HC

ENS @ Bengaluru

BJP MLA and party chief whip in the Karnataka Legislative Assembly, M Sathish Reddy and five others moved the Karnataka High Court challenging the notification issued by the state government on delimitation of BBMP wards on July 14, 2022. He contended that the delimitation committee cannot recommend to the state government since its tenure has expired.

Reddy urged the court to issue directions to the authorities to consider the representation submitted by the petitioners and reconsider the pattern of delimitation of Hulimavu as per Section 7 of BBMP Act. Justice Hemant Chandangoudar issued notice to BBMP Chief Commissioner, DC and Additional District Election Officer, among others.

Cong leader's supporters put up flexes, violate HC order

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

DESPITE the ban on flexes and banners, and citizens flaying the banner culture, political leaders don't seem to care a damn about either BBMP rules or the High Court verdict. In a fresh development, local leaders and supporters of former Congress MLC M Narayanaswamy, and candidate from KR Puram for the assembly election, have put up small and big cutouts to wish him on his birthday.

The irony is that cheap publicity material has come up within half a kilometre from HAL ward's Annasandrapalya, where about 50 homes were flooded after Vibhutipura lake swelled. A leader identified as Manjunath aka Manjanna put up the flexes from BEML Circle to Hospital Road and Jagadish Nagar Circle of New Thippasandra Ward. A big cutout of Narayanaswamy in the foreground and Vidhana Soudha in the background seems to be Manjunath's attempt to impress, with BBMP elections due. Narayanaswamy is considered close to DK Shivakumar, and the leader is hoping he may lobby for a ticket. Interestingly, the publicity material— which goes against the BBMP Act, 2020, under Section 3 of the Open Places (Prevention of Disfigurement) Act, 1981— was put up a few days ago when parts of the city were ravaged after Vibhutipura and Bellandur lakes swelled.

BBMP Commissioner Tushar Girinath had last month said that instructions had been given to officials to take action and clear the flexes, and that 28 FIRs were booked on illegal flexes. Meanwhile, BBMP Special Commissioner (Revenue) RL Deepak said he had given instructions to officials to remove the flexes wishing Narayanaswamy, and also to file cases.

Heavy rain delays much-awaited Baiyappanahalli-Whitefield Metro line

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

THE non-completion of works at both the Whitefield and the Baiyappanahalli Metro depots owing to heavy rains pounding the city over the last three months could result in some delay in the launch of this new line. It has a deadline of December 2022. The trial runs slated for this month will also not happen.

Completion of the 15.25-km elevated Baiyappanahalli-Whitefield line (Purple Line extension) with 13 stations is being eagerly awaited by residents, including thousands of IT employees working along the corridor.

Speaking to TNIE, Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Ltd Managing Director Anjum Parwez said, "The trial runs slated to be held on the line will now happen in October instead of September as depots works could not be completed due to rains. We are doing our best to launch the line by the proposed deadline but there could be a slight delay, say 15 to 20 days." "The trials runs by officials with the trolley will be done. But trial with the train will happen later," he added.

Work in progress at Baiyappanahalli Metro depot

"The side wall on the rear portion of the Baiyappanahalli depot is being raised to a much higher level. A ramp is also being built here. These are being done to facilitate entry of the train here. This unloading platform for the train has to be readied and trains cannot be brought here unless it is in place," he said.

Explaining the reasons for stopping work, the MD said the soil needs to be dry to build solid structures. "The moisture content is presently very high due to the rains. And hence we have stopped work at these places. We are looking at starting them by Friday provided it does not rain."

He said that many construction projects have taken a severe beating in the last three months due to erratic rains. "Construction on the airport line and Outer Ring Road lines have been impacted. Work on Jyotipuram and KR Puram stations and the yards (Hennur and Doddajala) of contractors too have been affected," the MD added.

TBM Varada breaks through at Langford stn

ENS @ Bengaluru

AT 10.30 am on Friday, Tunnel Boring Machine (TBM) Varada achieved the breakthrough for its second tunnel at Langford Town Metro Station after drilling for 225 days. It had completed drilling a distance of 597.8 m from Rashtriya Military School Shaft at Vellara Junction. With this, Varada has completed tunnelling for 517 days to put in place the twin tunnels and will be taken off duty on the underground corridor of the Nagawara-Kalena Agrahara Line.

The drilling of the second leg, parallel to the first leg and in the same direction from Rashtriya Military School (Vellara Junction) to Langford began on January 27, 2022, said a top Metro official. "The machine would now be dismantled into parts. They would be lifted to the ground level using a gantry and then transported by a trailer to the yard."

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

10TH September : I mentioned the unusual Mercury-Uranus combination yesterday. Today's key picture links Uranus to the Sun, reinforcing the message that it's time to break out of our comfortable ruts and experiment with new and untried ways of doing things. And if it doesn't work, we can always go back to the old, familiar methods later!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The future will be the present sooner then you think - and it's tomorrow's stars which are important rather than today's. It's your long-term cycle which is significant, emphasising the spirit of adventure and personal liberation both in professional and private affairs.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The planets are once again provoking your often neglected, adventurous instincts. It's time to travel, taking in places which are odd, unusual and different. If you can't get away now, make plans for later in the year. Even your romantic feelings could be stirred by people from far away.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Your current planetary alignments are undoubtedly extremely powerful, but are also very confused. You may have no option but to lie low and postpone certain ambitions, no matter how impatient you may feel. Continue to focus on financial discussions, though.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
The planets are starting to crystallise all that is best and most hopeful in your life, setting you up for years to come. Much depends on your ability to handle close partnerships, and to create a sort of extended feel-good factor. But sometimes, though, you can want too much - much more than is really on offer.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Aside from reminding you of the need to give the first priority to dealing with practical chores, I would remind you of the virtues of charitable behaviour, if only out of self-interest. In some strange way you will gain from putting others first for a change.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Social, political and community involvements should take a leap into the unknown. You will be glad of all your group involvements even if the consequences last week were not exactly what you intended. At least now you can make up for an old muddle.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The dual prospect is held out of fabulous professional success combined with dramatic moves at home. Take your chances and go for family and domestic changes if that is what concerns you most. All Libran artists, athletes and lovers take strength from today's lunar patterns.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
It's time to be high-minded and high-principled, though not pompous or self-righteous. If you've a list of practical tasks, give a priority to anything with legal or overseas consequences. Long-distance travel and trips could well bring more than you bargained for.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Have you ever had the feeling that family members are ganging up on you? Well, they probably are. I wouldn't worry, though, because you're much too big a person to be put off by such silly games. Relax and have a laugh, even if the monetary scene is a little complex.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
This is no time to behave like a conventional, conservative Capricorn. Why not open yourself up to new experiences and appreciate all that other people have to offer? You can accept all unusual invitations - and don't be embarrassed by generosity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
The weekend's special planetary alignment enhances all that is most noble in the Aquarian character - your selfless idealism and devotion to others. The only drawback is that you may become much too tied up in your own deep imaginary hopes and fears.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You'll soon be showing a new, bolder side of your character. Your social skills will come in useful over the next few months, mainly as a result of the current magical Jupiterian pattern. You are gradually overcoming your shyness and lack of confidence. Well done!

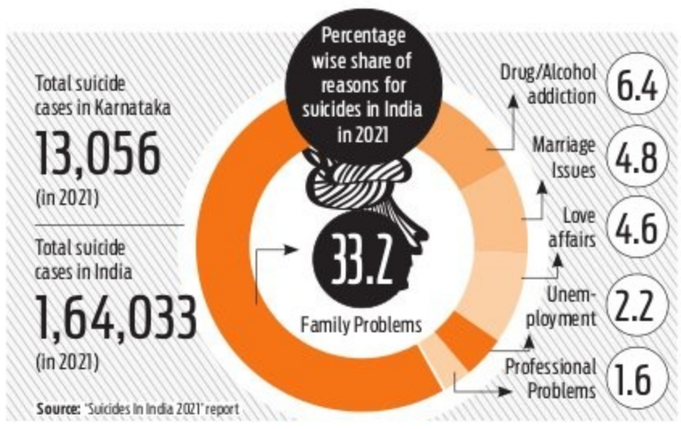
K'taka among top 5 states with high suicide rates

Across India, there has been gradual rise in number of suicide cases

NAMRATA SINDWANI @ Bengaluru



KARNATAKA has figured in the top five states that have reported the highest number of suicide cases in the country, according to the 'Suicides In India 2021' report.

In 2021, the state witnessed 13,056 cases of suicide for reasons ranging from family issues, unemployment, career problems, drug abuse, love affairs/marriage etc. Across India, there has been a gradual increase in the number of suicide cases from 1.29 lakh in 2017 to 1.64 lakh cases in 2021.

On the eve of World Suicide Prevention Day, celebrated on September 10 every year, Dr Shivaram Varambally from Department of Psychiatry, National Institute of Mental Health and Neurosciences (NIMHANS) highlighted mental health aspects leading to increasing number of suicides. He explained that causes of suicidal attempts in rural and urban settings were different.

Prevention of suicide requires both addressing mental health and social changes. Though the awareness has increased over the years, it is important to continue increasing awareness, and normalise the phenomenon and stigma attached with it, Dr Varambally added.

Nimesh George, a psychologist from Bengaluru, said the issue was due to lack of resources in the professional field and lack of support from family in times of need. Due to the stigma attached to it, even when the message is conveyed by a mentally-ill person to their family, appropriate help is not available. In semi-urban or rural areas, it is much less and often ignored, he added.

George also said that more number of suicides are seen in urban areas than rural regions due to incorrect diagnosis as seen in the post-mortem reports. Incorrect information is often provided to the authorities. When compared, the resources are not enough in urban areas and are much lesser in rural areas, George explained.

Minors' families reach deal, HC drops Pocso charges

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday terminated criminal proceedings -- both rape charges under IPC and sexual assault under Pocso Act – registered by the city police against a 16-year-old boy, based on the mutual settlement reached between the families of the accused boy and survivor girl, who is also 16 years old.

Noting that several courts have considered the impact of hauling a minor boy into the web of provisions under the Pocso Act, and clearly held that the Act was not meant to punish minor accused who are in love with minor survivors, Justice M Nagaprasanna passed the order by allowing the petition filed by the boy. He was seeking annulment of proceedings based on a complaint filed in November 2021.

"Romantic love between an adolescent boy and girl sometimes arising out of infatuation, result in the boy embroiling himself into the vortex of provisions of the Pocso Act," the judge observed, pointing out that both the accused and victim were close friends and were infatuated with each other.

The judge noted that the act had been done in the frenzy of youth, and such acts are entirely different from aggravated penetrated sexual assault. The provisions of the Act are not known to students who are minors and get infatuated. It is parents of the wards who come forward to register a complaint, often to settle the dispute, the judge said.

Considering the peculiar facts of the case, the judge said, "I deem it appropriate to take note of the settlement, accept the same and free the petitioner from the mesh of crime that he is enmeshed in, failing which the future of a student, who passed Standard 10 with 'A' Grade, would be put to insurmountable jeopardy... Moreover, no useful purpose would be served by sending the boy to face criminal trial... "

Two women murdered for gain in separate incidents

Bengaluru: Two women, including a 65-year-old retired teacher, were found murdered for gain in separate incidents on Thursday. In both incidents, the assailants escaped with the victims' gold ornaments. In one case, miscreants barged into the rented house of Prasanna Kumari in Vidyaranyapura and smothered her to death after gagging her and tying her hands and legs. They ransacked the house, police said. She hailed from Vijayawada and had retired as a teacher four years ago. The house owner found her body and called police. A special police team has been formed to nab the accused. In another incident, 52-year-old Kempamma, a resident of Achchalu Colony in Ramanagar, was found murdered on a farm land. Police said she was grazing cattle when miscreants stabbed and robbed her ornaments. When she did not return, her family members went to check and found her lying in a pool of blood. Efforts are on to identify the accused, the police said.

Alcoholic goes berserk, stabs kin, damages cars

Bengaluru: A 24-year-old alcoholic stabbed his parents and uncle with a knife and created a ruckus when they tried to admit him to a rehabilitation centre. He also damaged 12 cars before he was restrained by the police. The incident happened at Yeswanthpur on Thursday night. The accused has been identified as Tejas, a resident of Subedarpalya. The staff of a rehabilitation centre had gone to his house at 9 pm to take him to the centre when he went berserk. After attacking his kin, Tejas ran out of the house and damaged his uncle's car before barging into the latter's house and creating a commotion there. After sometime, he damaged several cars parked on the road. Tejas then entered a tractor in a Ganesha procession and threatened to damage the idol. The Yeshwanthpur police, deployed for the procession, managed to nab Tejas and took him to the police station. His mother, father and uncle received treatment for stab injuries. The police have registered two cases against him -- a case of attempt to murder and another case under the Arms Act.

3% GDP LOST

5L accidents, 3L deaths: Gadkari asks states to hold highway audit

'A meeting of ministers from all states will be held to frame policy to check pollution'

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai greets Union Minister of State for Road Transport and Highways and Civil Aviation General VK Singh in Bengaluru on Friday | EXPRESS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

UNION Minister of Roads and Highways Nitin Gadkari suggested that states conduct an audit of accidents on highways, as 5 lakh mishaps are reported annually, and 3 lakh deaths causing 3 per cent loss to the country's GDP is a matter of great concern.

He was speaking at the 41st meeting of the Transport Development Council in Bengaluru.

Conducting the audits might be expensive, but authorities at the district level can make use of the expertise of faculty at technical institutions and also engage students on a stipend basis to collect data, which is significant to take measures and save lives.

Meanwhile, he said he will hold a meeting of ministers and officials from all states in New Delhi in 15 days' time, to bring in a policy to check pollution, especially noise pollution which is rampant in cities, with unnecessary honking by motorists.

"One crore people were engaged in an inhuman profession of ferrying people on their manual cycle rickshaws for years. Of them, 70 lakh have switched to mechanised e-rickshaws and e-carts. It's the greatest achievement in my life," Gadkari said.

CM holds talks with PWD, Finance depts on NHs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday met senior officers of the Public Works and Finance departments to discuss implementation of national highway projects in the state.

After the meeting, Bommai said they discussed allowing heavy vehicles on the elevated road at Goraguntepalya in Bengaluru after taking appropriate measures to strengthen it, Bengaluru Satellite Town Ring Road (STRR), Bengaluru-Mysuru Highway and other projects.

He said some concessions for STRR will be given and the project expedited. Union Minister for Road Transport and Highways Nitin Gadkari agreed to consider the state's request for a small stretch of connecting road on STRR and a proposal will be sent soon, he added.

Bommai said they also discussed ensuring proper connectivity to Chennai, Mumbai and Hyderabad highways in Bengaluru and the need for flyovers, skywalks and underpasses on high-density national highways. "All these projects will be implemented urgently. He (Gadkari) asked us to prepare a plan within the next one-and-a-half months and assured us that he will sanction them. Our aim is to start the work this year," Bommai said.

GADKARI apologised for the delay in fixing the flyover at Goraguntepalya on Tumakuru Road. "The Navyug contractors who had executed the project earlier were not in position to take up the upgrading of the flyover. Hence, new contractors will be assigned the work and will be given a deadline of three months to complete the project", he said.

Meanwhile, CM Basavaraj Bommai also said that Gadkari has promised to take steps to upgrade the flyover by identifying a new implementing agency. "The audit of the drains on the entire stretch of Bengaluru-Mysuru Express Highway will reveal the drawbacks and show ways to take up remedial measures", Bommai had said.

Earlier, Gadkari claimed that in his seven years as a Union minister, there has not been a single complaint of corruption even though he has executed projects to the tune of Rs 50 lakh crore.

BJP to sound poll bugle at Doddaballapura rally

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar addresses media persons about the arrangements of Janaspandana programme near Doddaballapura on Friday

THE BJP will sound the poll bugle on Saturday at the party's 'Janaspandana' rally in Doddaballapura.

Health and Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar said around 3 lakh people from Chikkaballapura, Kolar, Bengaluru Rural and some parts of Tumakuru will attend the rally in which the party will sound the poll bugle for the 2023 Assembly polls.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, Union Minister Smriti Irani, former CM BS Yediyurappa and other senior BJP leaders will address the rally. A report card on the achievements of two years of Yediyurappa government and programmes implemented by the Bommai government in the last one year will be presented at the rally. Beneficiaries of the government schemes will also be present.

Sudhakar said they are taking all measures to ensure that the 'Janaspandana' will not cause a traffic jam and have made arrangements for parking vehicles near the venue.

The BJP is planning to hold six rallies in different parts of the state and after that a state-level convention in central Karnataka ahead of the 2023 Assembly polls. Doddaballapura event is the first such rally and it is seen as an effort by the party to strengthen its base in the Old Mysuru region, which is a stronghold of the Congress and JDS. Sudhakar said the massive rally will be an answer to the dectractors. Municipal Administration Minister MTB Nagaraj said the party will show its strength in those districts and win at least eight of 14 assembly seats.

The BJP had planned to hold a 'Janotsava' rally on July 28 but was cancelled after a BJP Youth Wing leader's murder in Dakshina Kannada, and then again after the demise of minister Umesh Katti.

Cong-JDS take reins of T'kuru city corporation

Tumakuru: Congress bagged the Tumakuru City Corporation mayor post, while JDS won the deputy mayor's on Friday as their candidates M Prabhavathy Sudhishwar and TK Narasimhamurthy defeated BJP effortlessly. Last month, the government announced the reservation to of mayor's post to SC (woman) and deputy mayor's to BCM (A) general categories for one year. BJP failed to field a candidate to the mayor post resulting in an understanding between JDS and Congress. Previously, BG Krishnappa of BJP and Nazimabi of JDS were holding the mayor and deputy mayor posts. With Congress and JDS members holding the coveted posts in the corporation, it could be a setback for BJP in the 2023 Assembly polls as incumbent MLA GB Jyotiganesh is likely to face a tough contest in Tumakuru city seat. Last time, there was a triangular contest, and the BJP emerged victorious by a margin of over 5,000 votes with JDS candidate N Govindaraju ending as the runner-up with 55,000 votes. Congress' Dr Rafeek Ahmed had garnered 51,000 votes.

Bharat Jodo Yatra in state starts on Sept 30

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka phase of Bharat Jodo Yatra will begin from September 30 and will take a two-day break as it falls during Dasara, said Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah, KPCC president DK Shivakumar, party national General Secretary Randeep Surjewala and Council opposition leader BK Hariprasad on Friday.

An online registration portal was launched on Friday for people, irrespective of their political affiliations, to take part in the rally. Over one lakh people, 76,000 of them aged below 35, registered on Independence Day. Food, lodging and other necessities of the yatris will be taken care of during the rally, they said.

The yatra is to ensure that the country becomes a "garden of peace for all people", in contrast with the present BJP government, which is spreading the poison of division and disharmony, they said. The other objectives are fighting price rise, unemployment, freeing Karnataka of corruption and improving the lot of farmers and the poor, they added.

Different sections of people, including workers, farmers, women, SCs and minorities, will be given an opportunity to interact with senior party leader Rahul Gandhi, who is leading the yatra, during afternoon breaks. They explained that Rahul's interactions with forest dwellers at Biligiriranga Hills helped bring the Forest Settlement Act.

With the horror of floods still fresh in people's minds, a special committee has been set up to collect the opinions and views of Bengalureans over the next 15 days. The committee will be headed by PCC working president Ramalinga Reddy and comprise former minister Krishna Byregowda and former mayor Padmavathi.

Tribals hunt for records to avail govt schemes

K SHIVA KUMAR @Mysuru

THE tribal community are anxious about getting compensation under various relief schemes after heavy rain damaged over 25 houses over the past few weeks.

The tribal community in HD Kote, Periyapatna, Hunsur and Saragur fear that if there is delay in releasing compensation, it will add to their plight with two more months of rain remaining. Panchayat officials and and revenue staff have visited Varnachai, Tarakawadi, Bheemakki, Kidige, among other villages, and accepted the applications demanding relief, but the tribal are worried as they are unable to furnish necessary documents, despite residing in their houses for generations.

With over 60,000 tribals spread across five taluks including Hunsur and HD Kote were unable to avail the benefits under social scheme or avail loans like dominant communities in the ST category.

Perturbed by their impediments, the Budakattu Krishikara Sangha wants that the tahsildar, Revenue Inspector and village accountants to hold janatha darshan for tribals in hoblis or at panchayat-level, and issue khata, regularise land they are tilling, provide Aaadhar, income and caste certificates, which will help them to avail economic and social benefits. Sangha president PK Ramu said that most of the applications submitted under forest rights were rejected due to lack of supporting documents.

The long-pending demand for a Tribal Development Authority is yet to materialise as successive governments have not taken up the tribal cause seriously.

Tribal leader Vittal said that inter-reservation among STs would give some relief and do justice to the tribals.

Regarding rejection of 5,000 applications by the the Assistant Commissioners, HD Kote office, under Forest Rights Act, the tribals have urged the government to rehabilitate 3,418 families as per the directions of the Karnataka HC including 1,106 families in Hunsur and 511 families in Virajpet and Kodagu.

Form all-party relief panel: DKS to govt

Bengaluru: Following floods in Bengaluru, KPCC president DK Shivakumar said that an all-party relief committee should be constituted to ensure that people who have been affected by the flood get adequate relief. In case their houses are in the flood-hit areas, the residents should get a compensation in the range of Rs 5 lakh to Rs 25 lakh, he said, adding that the government should immediately organise a health camp. Replying to a question on MP Tejasvi Surya's statement that there was a conspiracy by the media and Congress in the rain mayhem, he said, "What your cameras have shown is the truth." He said that former Chief Minister SM Krishna, and many other stalwart leaders have built Bengaluru, adding that the Congress want to enhance the dignity of the city, which the BJP is destroying. "Now, a committee has been formed to hear out the problems of all sections of people in the city. We are focusing on protecting our city," he said. ENS

INSENSITIVE

KOLIWAD'S 'HARSH' WORDS TO FAMILY OF FARMER KICK UP STORM

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

FORMER Assembly speaker KB Koliwad's "harsh and and insensitive" words to the family of a dead farmer, who committed suicide, from his erstwhile Ranebennur constituency to pay last respects to the farmer has kicked up a storm on social media.

Koliwad, who was at a meeting, received a phone call from the family of Paramesh Nayak, the dead farmer. It is said that Nayak committed suicide as he could not repay his Rs 10-15 lakh loan.

Koliwad, a five-term MLA, does not represent the constituency anymore as he lost the 2018 Assembly polls. When the family invited him over phone to place a garland on the body of Nayak, who was a Congress supporter, Koliwad spoke in a "rude and indifferent manner". The video of that conversation has now gone viral, inviting condemnations from all sections, including politicians.

MLC R Shankar said, "I had gone to Mashtur village in Ranebennur to speak to the family of the farmer after his suicide." Asked about Koliwad's conversation with Nayak's family, Shankar said, "I don't want to react to this. People will respond to Koliwad's actions."

Agriculture Minister BC Patil, who hails from Haveri district under which Ranebennur falls, said, "Farmers are going through difficult times. They call us with the assumption that we will go to their help. This is what happens in public life and it is a bad tradition."

Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha leader K Chandrashekar said, "Koliwad spoke badly. Such politicians should not be supported during the polls." Farmers have been demanding a one-time waiver of their loans, but the government is yet to take a decision.

B'luru remembers its tryst with the Queen

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AS the world mourns the passing away of Queen Elizabeth II, citizens across the world reminisce on her many visits to their cities, including the citizens of Bengaluru who welcomed her with open arms in 1961 — over 61 years ago.

The Queen passed away at Balmoral Castle in Scotland on Thursday at the age of 96.

The Queen visited Bangalore (now Bengaluru) on February 21, 1961, during the Royal Tour of India, where she had also visited Bombay (now Mumbai), Madras (now Chennai) and Calcutta (now Kolkata). She was accompanied by her husband the Duke of Edinburgh Prince Philip. The couple also visited famous sites, including the Taj Mahal in Agra.

In the state capital, the Royal Couple was welcomed by the then Mysore Governor Maharaja Jayachamarajendra Wadiyar and Mayor Dr MG Seshadri at the present day HAL Airport.

"We heard the Queen was heading from Dr CV Raman Nagar to Malleswaram grounds. There was enormous respect and regard for the Queen as it was just 15 years after Independence. We followed her vehicle up to the grounds where she delivered a talk. The English was too stylish and we could not understand anything," recalls RS Bhagawan, 77, a retired finance manager.

On her visit to Bengaluru, she first visited the Bible Society of India, headquartered in the city for its 150th anniversary celebrations. Here, she was presented with a copy of the Bible translated into Hindi. "I have a faint memory as it dates back 60 years. The only thing I remember is that all of us in our extended family ran with much speed towards the road when we heard the news that the Queen was on her way. And we managed to have a glimpse of her," says Vasanthi Vasudevan, 82, a retired teacher.

Her visit also included a trip to Lalbagh Botanical Garden, where she planted a sapling, and was gifted fruits by farmers and sellers while being shown the various floral sights the gardens had to offer. "My cousins and I stood waving at her from the footpath on Margosa Road when she passed in an open black car accompanied by the Duke of Edinburgh and her two children. She was stunningly beautiful. She was smiling and waving to all and turning to both sides of the footpath to wave back at people," recalls Dr Padma Prasad, 75, a retired gynaecologist.

IISc was also one of the places that she visited, having planted two Magnolia Grandiflora saplings on the institute's expansive campus, on either side of the JN Tata Statue in the quadrangle. Her signature is still currently archived by the institute in the visitor's book, and the 61-year-old trees now stand at 15 ft in height.

TRS supremo to manage show from Hyderabad, play active role in national politics

VV BALAKRISHNA @ Hyderabad

THE stage is set for the launch of a national party by TRS supremo and Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao. He is likely to announce the details of his new national outfit during the 10-day Dasara festival, beginning on September 26.

Even while continuing as the State Chief Minister, Rao would also play an active role in national politics from Hyderabad.

Presidents of all 33 district units of TRS addressed the press at Telangana Bhavan on Friday morning, where they requested Rao to launch the new national party and to play a key role in national politics, especially to counter the 'anti-people' policies of the Narendra Modi government.

TRS Mancherial district president Balka Suman, who spoke to the press along with A Jeevan Reedy, said: "People of Telangana and the country are awaiting your decision. There is a need to end the demonical rule of BJP. Start a national party."

It may be recalled here that Rao had declared in July this year that "If necessary, TRS will be converted into a national party". According to sources, Rao is considering names like Bharata Rashtra Samithi (BRS) and Nava Bharata Party for his new party.

In all probability, Rao may convert TRS into a national party by changing its name to BRS. However, he may retain the car symbol and pink colour for his new party flag so that there will not be any confusion among voters in Telangana in the next Assembly elections, which are scheduled to be held December, 2023.

Rao has been consulting his party leaders and also leaders of various regional parties on the proposed national party for the last three months.

Kumaraswamy to meet KCR tomorrow

Former Chief Minister of Karnataka and JDS leader HD Kumarasway is scheduled to meet Rao in the city on Sunday. Though, there is speculation talk that Rao may announce his new party on Sunday, the sources ruled out such a possibility and said that as there no auspicious days till September 25, the Chief Minister may announce his new party only during Dasara. Both Kumaraswamy and Rao are expected to discuss the ensuing Assembly polls in Karnataka and other national issues, they added. Rao may consider the possibility of forging a front with non-BJP parties at the national level only after launching his national party. "Ours will not be third front, it will be a main front," Nitish Kumar said when Rao met him in Bihar. ENS

Akhil receives treatment in a hospital at Lingasugur in Raichur district | EXPRESS

Mystery over boy sustaining burns in Raichur school

RAMAKRISHNA BADSESHI @ Raichur

AN eight-year-old boy studying in Class 2 suffered severe burns under mysterious circumstances at a private school, where he was attending tuition classes, at Santekallur village of Maski taluk.

Though the boy was studying at the Government Higher Primary School in Mittakallur village, he was also attending coaching classes at Ghanameshwara Higher Primary school in Santekallur.

Though the incident occurred on September 2, it came out only now. On the evening of September 2, the boy, Akhil, went to the toilet and opened a tap thinking it was for cold water, but hot water gushed out burning him. He was admitted to the Government Taluk Hospital, where the doctors said he had sustained 40 per cent burns.

Several officials of the education department and the private school headmaster visited Akhil at the hospital and spoke to the boy's father Venkatesh. The officials have sent a letter to higher-ups, stating that Akhil had gone to attend nature's call and sustained injuries. But they also point out that a teacher, Huligappa, has been on leave since the incident. The officials also raise the question as to how the boy sustained burns on his chest and back when he had opened the tap himself.

A child rights activist, Mohan, who visited the hospital at Lingasugur on Friday, said that he had some doubts after talking to Akhil's mother and that the parents of the boy and the school authorities were hiding something.

Samajika Parivartana Janandola Secretary Vithal Chikani said the Child Welfare Committee and State Children Welfare Board should conduct an inquiry as the boy has sustained serious injuries on the premises of the school under suspicious circumstances.

Lingsugur BEO Humbanna has served show-cause notices to the headmasters of both schools. He has asked the headmaster of the government school how he permitted the boy to study in another institution.

ONAM CHEERS!

Tipplers down booze worth ₹118cr in a day

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @T'Puram

AFTER a two-year minor hiccup in festivities caused by the Covid pandemic, Keralites said cheers to this year's Onam season by guzzling liquor worth over ₹100 crore on a single day.

The Kerala State Beverages Corporation (Bevco) sold alcohol worth ₹118 crore on Wednesday, the eve of Thiruvonam. Last year, its revenue on Uthradam was ₹82 crore. Bevco's total earnings in the seven days preceding Thiruvonam also saw a jump, from ₹529 crore in 2021 to ₹624 crore this year. The state government earned an estimated ₹550 crore as tax revenue through the Onam liquor sales.

The Bevco outlet at Asramam in Kollam saw the maximum sales on Uthradam day (₹1.6 crore) in the state, while the outlet at Power House Road in Thiruvananthapuram came second (₹1.2 crore). In third place was the Irinjalakuda outlet in Thrissur (₹1.1 crore). The Court Junction outlet at Cherthala in Alappuzha (₹1 crore) and the outlet at Payyannur in Kannur (₹99 lakh) were in fourth and fifth place, respectively.

The relaxation of Covid restrictions improved sales in Bevco outlets. In July, the government approved the proposal to open 243 new premium walk-in outlets. This will increase the number of Bevco outlets nearly two-fold, from the current 267. Efforts are also on to improve the facilities in existing outlets and convert them into premium walk-in shops.

Factors that influenced the choice of the location of 175 new outlets included the area's population, accessibility to existing shops and convenience of tourists.

HQ visit: Police deny OPS' plea for protection

Chennai: A day after O Panneerselvam's faction filed a petition seeking police protection to visit the party headquarters, the city police denied the request and asked them to wait until they made sure that there were no law and order issues. A senior police officer, speaking to TNIE, said, "The OPS faction asked for police protection to be placed on the streets leading to the AIADMK headquarters to avoid any untoward incident. We have asked for more time to analyse the law and order situation." He added that the police have suggested OPS to not go to the headquarters anytime soon since it would threaten his safety. B.Com student ends life over 'harassment' by loan app operators

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guntur

AN undergraduate student ended his life allegedly due to harassment by operators of mobile loan applications, police said on Friday. The deceased has been identified as Sivaratri Siva, a B.Com student. The incident occurred at Narayanapuram village in Palnadu district.

Parents of the 21-year-old youngster informed the police that their son took the extreme step after operators of a loan app harassed him to pay ₹20,000 to clear a debt of ₹8,000. However, police are yet to confirm the involvement of loan app operators in the case. A complaint was filed at the Dachepalli police station and investigation is underway.

As per preliminary investigation, police have learnt that Siva had borrowed money from several people in the village and was struggling to clear his debts. Police are yet to find out why the student borrowed money.

It has been reported that Siva's mother had refused to give him money when he had asked for it.

Afraid that lenders would humiliate him for not clearing the debts, Siva committed suicide, police said.

Dachepalli station inspector Balanagi Reddy said, "We are trying to get some information from his mobile phone. Only after proper investigation, we can ascertain the role of mobile loan apps."

The incident comes just a day after a couple in Rajamahendravaram committed suicide allegedly as they were being harassed by mobile loan operators. Following the incident, Chief Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy on Thursday had directed officials to take strict action against loan apps operating in violation of norms prescribed by the Reserve Bank of India.

STALIN FORTIFYING HIS IMAGE AS OPPOSITION CONNECTOR FOR 2024

Amid Chief Minister M K Stalin's apparent bonhomie with Prime Minister Narendra Modi during the inauguration of the Chess Olympiad, questions were raised whether his DMK was edging closer to the BJP, abandoning its national partner, the Congress.

Stalin has, in recent days, put that speculation to rest by renewing his commitment to a national opposition against the saffron party, albeit not by always keeping the grand old party happy. Even as the "freebie" discourse swirled, primarily against the AAP that faces the BJP in Gujarat next, the DMK government invited Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal to launch a series of schools modelled after the AAP's Delhi project and its flagship initiative offering female government school students ₹1000 each month to pursue a college education. While the leaders spoke of no politics, only governance, the DMK signalled its position against the BJP. Soon after, he met with Rahul Gandhi and launched the Bharat Jodo Yatra, stating on Twitter that the Congress scion was beginning a journey to "retrieve India's soul". The DMK mouthpiece, the Murasoli, recalled that Stalin had pitched Rahul as the PM candidate in 2019 just as his father, M Karunanidhi, had backed Indira Gandhi.

Stalin has always reaffirmed his support for Rahul and the Congress, standing as one of the few significant regional leaders who sees the party as a key figure in the national opposition to the BJP in the 2024 elections. On the one hand, it may be a principled position against what it views as the BJP's communalist, Hindu majoritarian politics, the antithesis to the Dravidian ideology. But it cannot be denied that it is also a matter of political strategy. The BJP has made no secret of its desire to grow in TN. The AIADMK remains in turmoil. The BJP has sought to replace it, at least in discourse. As always, it is set for the long game. In this context, the opposition to the BJP—at the national level—allows the DMK to set itself up as a bulwark against a brand of politics unpopular in the state. Stalin also seeks to emulate his legendary father as a connector on the national stage, given his warm ties with most regional leaders.

INDIA MUST TREAD WITH CARE THE PRICE CAP MAZE

The G-7 wealthy nations have proposed a price cap on Russian oil exports to deplete Moscow's war chest financing the Ukraine war. The details are thin, but the EU's sixth sanctions package is inching closer to banning all Russian crude oil imports by sea into the bloc starting December 5 and all refined oil products like gasoline and diesel from February 5, 2023. Russian oil imports by road and other means will continue, but at discounted prices, limiting Moscow's profit margin on each barrel sold. The price cap level isn't finalised yet, but most expect a range above production costs to ensure export incentives. No producer can entirely stop pumping oil, as oil wells don't work with a simple, mechanical stop-start function. Some also fear the move could lead to supply shocks and skyrocketing prices in global markets, earning more revenue for Russia even if export volumes drop.

Calling it an 'absurd decision' leading to chaos, Russia warned that countries imposing a price cap would be banned from receiving Russian oil. Moreover, energy experts say a price cap that's not global will never work and warn that the plan could backfire if key buyers like China, India and Turkey stay away. India maintains that Europeans buy more in one afternoon than Asia's third-largest economy does in a quarter. Still, the EU has called on China and India to join forces, while the US is pressurising India to join the buyer's cartel. On the other hand, a desperate Russia is luring nations with juicier long-term and fixed price contracts at deep discounts to lock in future revenue. This is favourable to nonparticipating countries, whose goal is to get the lowest price. With ports and shipping lanes off-limits, Russian oil exports will face logistical delays, and the proposed price cap gives oil-buying nations additional leverage to negotiate.

There has never been an attempt to impose an oil price cap, though there were oil export sanctions on nations like Iran and Venezuela. In either scenario, Russia may have to give up pricing power over energy exports. The G-7 is reminding India about its conflicting interests in boycotting Moscow. Still, Minister of Petroleum and Natural Gas Hardeep Singh Puri was explicit that his 'moral duty' was only towards his fellow citizens. While securing affordable energy is essential to tame inflation, India must carefully assess its strategic position and take a nuanced decision.

QUICK TAKE

CRIMINALISE 'CONVERSION THERAPY'

The National Medical Commission says practicing 'conversion therapy' will be deemed an act of professional misconduct. The treatment is a socio-medical evil lurking beneath society's dark underbelly. It represents a gamut of tortures, including electric shocks and rape, which some doctors and mostly quacks use to cure boys and girls of homosexual tendencies at their parents' prodding. Thousands of such youth lead scarred lives. It's time the LGBTQ+ community escapes this malevolence. The Commission proposes to discourage the practice. The government must now pick up the baton and legislate to criminalise the therapy. The victims need counselling and society, awareness.

FREEBIES BEST LEFT FOR GOVT & VOTERS TO NEGOTIATE

PRAVEEN CHAKRAVARTY

Political economist and senior office-bearer of Congress

SOURAV ROY

Are we beggars for these politicians to hand out sarees and dhotis? Let us ask for jobs, not sarees,' says 'Superstar' Rajinikanth in the 1993 Tamil film Valli, as Siddarth Muralidharan pointed out in an article for The Print. Three decades later, the nation is still debating 'freebies' versus 'welfare'. As always with the 'Superstar', several profound political and policy questions are raised by this seemingly innocuous 'filmi dialogue'.

Is sari a 'freebie'? Is the government's role only to provide jobs and not saris? Are voters vulnerable to such 'freebie' promises of political parties during elections? Are providing jobs and saris mutually exclusive? Should an elected state government be free to decide how to spend the state's money? The average Tamilian earns ₹2.25 lakh while the average Bihari earns just one-fifth, ₹45,000. Does that imply free saris are a wasteful 'freebie' in Tamil Nadu while it may be an essential 'welfare' in poorer Bihar? If yes, who decides this, and can there be a rules-based order in determining 'freebies'? This is a far more complex debate than what Rajinikanth thinks are 'freebies' or 'welfare'!

Economists use terms such as public goods versus private goods and merit goods versus non-merit goods to make a distinction. But even the most ardent 'limited government' economists agree that these distinctions are fungible and are no 'Lakshman Rekhas'. A laptop may be considered a wasteful freebie, but as the pandemic revealed, they were essential public goods for education.

So, what may be deemed a 'freebie' today may be a required 'welfare' tomorrow, such as, say, free internet. Or good quality saris that may be deemed as a wasteful expense in a rich state like TN may be a necessity in a poor state like Bihar to protect the right to dignity of poor women. Some argue that governments should provide people cash rather than saris, medicines or laptops, which will give them the freedom to spend on whatever they need. Ironically, the same economists who lament about government 'freebies' also argue that providing cash to people will make them lazy and lure them into spending it on alcohol or other wasteful things, rendering the labour force unproductive for the economy. They neither trust the government nor the individual to spend money wisely.

It is futile to devise a rules-based order to prescribe a list of freebies and welfare for state governments to spend their money on. What should an elected state government spend its money on is best left to be negotiated between the government and its voters. If enough voters feel that the government is wasting their tax resources, the opposition parties will make it a big issue, and the voters will eventually express it on the EVM.

The other important question that Rajinikanth raises, not directly but implicitly, is—do voters get fooled and swayed by symbolic delivery of 'freebies' rather than more important needs such as jobs? There is no evidence to show that voters get overly influenced by such promises of 'freebies' and vote accordingly. Tamil Nadu, often hailed as the epitome of election freebies culture, has voted against the incumbent party in every election from 1991 to 2011 despite such promises. All parties make poll promises, and there is no evidence that voters choose the one with the most extravagant promises.

While it is true that a party such as the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) promised free electricity to voters in Punjab, it is wrong to attribute it to their victory. Had AAP not promised free electricity or even made more realistic promises of eliminating free power for rich farmers who can afford to pay for it, they would have still won a handsome victory in Punjab. It is essential not to conflate such electoral promises with electoral outcomes and impute strong correlations between them.

The current 'freebies' debate has dwindled into debates like 'freebies' versus 'welfare', who has the right to dictate expenditure or 'my freebies are better than yours', which masks more serious underlying issues. The fountainhead of this debate is the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) report claiming state finances are in terrible shape due to state governments' profligacy on 'freebies'. Add to this, an earlier 2011 petition in the Supreme Court challenged the ability of state governments to use taxes collected from a few to pay for 'freebies' for all. These two questions deserve more serious discussion and analysis than the current 'freebies' versus 'welfare' fight.

It is true that state government finances are in a perilous state due to excessive debt and run the risk of impacting the sovereign rating of the country overall. But the RBI's role is limited to restricting excessive borrowings of states rather than dictating how to spend their money. The RBI can impose harsh conditions and penalties for deeply indebted state governments to borrow more either by denying them credit or raising their borrowing rate steeply. Prescriptive judgements on good versus bad expenditure by an unelected RBI to elected state governments will be countered and opposed vehemently and justifiably.

The argument about using taxes of a few to pay for freebies for all is a slippery argument. First, everyone pays taxes in the country, albeit some more than others. Second, redistribution is the very essence of democracy, and it is unreasonable for the 'givers' to prescribe what should be given to the 'takers'. If individual 'givers' want to dictate the type of expenditure incurred for the individual 'takers', then what is to stop richer states like Maharashtra and Gujarat from saying that the Centre should not use their money to fund programs such as say, farm loan waivers and instead only use for say, hospitals, in poorer states of Bihar or Uttar Pradesh? This is a slippery slope that can shake the foundations of fiscal federalism and the unity of the nation at large. But the 'givers' have every right to protest using non-violent methods such as a 'tax satyagraha' or 'tax avoidance' to air their grievances and demand greater accountability and transparency from their state governments.

INDIAN SOCIETY NEEDS TO CHANGE ITS PATRIARCHIAL WAYS

NANDITHA KRISHNA

Historian, environmentalist and writer based in Chennai

So Bilkis Bano's rapists and her child's murderers are out. Maybe the law permits it: I do not know nor do I understand how. But welcoming the convicts with garlands and sweets was horrendous. India has cried out and the Supreme Court has taken cognisance. But if their release was permitted by the law, then the law must be changed.

Bilkis' case is just one more aspect of patriarchy. Patriarchy denies a woman certain rights, such as the right over her body, her choice of lifestyle, and the right to condemn those who violate her body. Young girls are still "married off" by giving a dowry to the boy or his family—essentially, the man is paid to take her off her parents' hands. I asked my Bihari cook why their girls were married so young. And the answer was shocking—"If they are not married, they will be raped." No wonder India's population has such skewed sex ratios.

Let's start with Sita and Draupadi. The former was sent away by her husband because someone doubted her purity—if she was molested by Ravana. She was not, but let's suppose she was. She was physically small, while he was a ten-headed monster. He had every advantage. Was her banishment fair? Draupadi's story was worse. She was disrobed in a room full of men, with her husbands and elders watching silently. Fortunately, Draupadi was saved by Lord Krishna. Later, her father and brothers gave up their lives to avenge her dishonour. Her five husbands became kings. Women are given subtle messages of inferiority—they are trained not to challenge discrimination, exploitation or subjugation. A girl's chastity is the mark of her father's honour. But she is fair game for other men.

The 21st century woman wants freedom and equality. But is that permissible in a patriarchal society? Men want to assert their superiority in these circumstances. Physical superiority is all that is left to many. And they assert it. The Bilkis Bano case has nothing to do with Hindus and Muslims. What about Nirbhaya, a Hindu girl raped and killed by Hindus? When it comes to rape and murder, religion is irrelevant. Hindu women were abducted and raped by Moplah Muslim men in Kerala, while a Hindu woman from Delhi was abducted and locked up for eight months, physically assaulted, and forced to convert to Islam after refusing to marry the accused, Saif Ansari. Christian priests have been accused of rape. No community is good or bad. Rapists and murderers will harm any helpless woman. Bilkis was at the wrong place at the wrong time. The tragedy today is the release of the rapists.

Patriarchy starts during childhood, and discrimination starts at home. Girls get dolls and kitchen sets, and boys get toy cars and toy guns—Playing with dolls and household work are 'girly' games. This teaches the latter that violence is a game. Girls play at home while boys go out and play cricket or football. In situations when food is rationed, girls get less and boys get more. Girls look after younger siblings while boys go to school. Thus, early in their lives, men are programmed to treat women as inferior beings. It doesn't end here—school textbooks further perpetuate the gender divide—examples in study material show the father going for work and the mother cooking in the kitchen. The son plays cricket while the daughter helps her mother make chapatis.

PTI

> Bilkis' case is just one more aspect of patriarchy. Patriarchy denies a woman certain rights, such as the right over her body, her choice of lifestyle, and the right to condemn those who violate her body

Boys are taught that "real men don't cry". The male child must not express normal feelings like fear or sorrow—he is expected to banish sensitivity and compassion, creating an armour of boldness, recklessness and cruelty. A 'real man' is expected to express power and control, leading to vicious actions such as aggression and physical cruelty. Often, rape is blamed on the woman: her clothes, her being out late, etc. Within the family, men make the decisions and women are expected to comply. Women are killed by male family members for "dishonouring the family". A man who is unable to find a woman to attack, hurts an animal instead, to prove his masculinity.

Indian films have also contributed to the image of the bold young man vis-à-vis the shy college student in a salwar-kameez. The young man will whistle at her, remark on her looks, etc. Initially, she will toss her head and walk on. Finally, she succumbs to the lothario, thus justifying the obnoxious behaviour we see on the streets—behaviour which leads to kidnappings and rapes. And suddenly, the scene changes to one where the girl is dressed minimally and is dancing (often very obscenely) with the man. This is the triumph of patriarchy.

Patriarchy is also shaped by forces like caste and class, the urban-rural divide, geography and other environmental factors. Competition and aggression are an essential part of male career growth. The world of business, management and politics eschews women. In the world of business interaction, men are dominant while women have many glass ceilings to break. Women have a tough ride to reach the top without patronage from fathers, husbands or male family members. Many business families exclude daughters from their inheritance planning. With the exception of a few Mayawatis and Mamatas, most women politicians—starting with Indira Gandhi—are somebody's daughter or wife. Women are paid less in offices and relegated to subordinate and low-paying jobs in agriculture and construction. Job selections prefer men to women as the latter, it is believed, will not travel and will take long maternity leaves. The odds are stacked against women.

During the Vedic period, women enjoyed equal status with men—they were educated and married late, and had the freedom to select their husbands. But their position deteriorated soon after, coming to abysmally low levels in the medieval period. Gradually, women were treated as secondary citizens because the patriarchal system was all-powerful.

All over the world, women are treated as an inferior class of beings by men. Yet all men came out of the womb of a woman. Whose fault is their attitude? The mother's or society's?

Goodbye, Queen

The monarchy of Queen Elizabeth II saw 15 prime ministers—starting with Sir Winston Churchill and ending with Liz Truss. Widely regarded as a symbol of stability, she worked tirelessly to make sure her monarchy remained relevant during a period of immense social, technological and economic changes. She was an excellent monarch who will now be mourned across the world.

Bigwigs must own up

Apropos of Blaming migrants for Bengaluru flood mess baseless and inhuman (September 9). This column is an eye-opener and a wake-up call for civic officials, politicians, bureaucrats and builders—their apathy and inaction have led to the flood scenario in the city as well as the 'us versus them' conflict. They need to own up to their follies.

Man's greed

This is with reference to the editorial, Blaming migrants for Bengaluru flood mess baseless and inhuman (September 9). Whenever a calamity strikes, the blame game begins. For the past few years, major metros have been facing the brunt of poorly planned infrastructure—essentially, this is the result of greed. But the need of the hour is to tackle the situation and fix the infrastructure. This is a lesson for all other metros.

Congress' fall

This is with reference to the column, Congress' national tag and holding ground in South (September 9). The Congress used to be a pan-India party once. It does not have any chance of gaining its glory back unless it hands the baton to younger leaders. Circling the Gandhis will lead to its downfall. It should rise so that India can maintain its secular flavour.

Cong must hold down fort

This is with reference to the column, Congress' national tag and holding ground in South (September 9). The Congress should not dance to the tunes of regional parties like the DMK. It needs to behave like the main alternative to the BJP. In lieu of this, like the column has rightly pointed out, it must think about its future in the South to bring it back to its zenith during the tenure of Mrs. Gandhi.

BJP rejigs team, appoints 15 state incharges

New appointments have come following party's break-up with the JD-U and possibility of a united Oppn front

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

A month after a dramatic break-up with the JD-U, the BJP on Friday appointed Vinod Tawde as the new state in-charge of the party replacing Union minister Bhupendra Yadav. The party has also appointed Harish Dwivedi as the co-in charge for Bihar.

Total 15 new incharges have been appointed.

Party sources said the new appointments came following wide consultations in the aftermath of the break-up with the JD-U. Vinod Tawde is a member of the Maharashtra Legislative Council and is considered an ace party strategist.

"In the next few days, a new state unit chief will also be announced," said a source.

The BJP also appointed the party's state in-charges and co-in charges for 14 other states, including poll-bound Telangana, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, West Bengal and Punjab.

According to an official list, Om Prakash Mathur has been made new state in-charge of poll-bound Chhattisgarh with Nitin Nabin (MLA Patna) as co-in charge.

Similarly, Tarun Chug is the pick for Telangana and Arvind Menon his deputy. Arun Singh has been again appointed the state in-charge of poll-bound Rajasthan and Vijay Rahtatkar as co-in charge.

P Muridhar Rao is the new state in-charge in Madhya Pradesh and Pankaj Munde and Ram Shankar Katheria are the co-in charges.

RAHUL PARRIES QUERY ON PARTY PRESIDENT POST

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Kanniyakumari

CONGRESS leader Rahul Gandhi on Friday said that he has made his decision on whether he will take up party presidency but did not divulge his plans, asserting that he will give his reasons if he does not contest the upcoming elections for the post.

Gandhi's remarks are seen by many in the party as an indication that he may stick to his earlier stance of not taking up the party chief's post. With his cryptic remarks the suspense over who would be the next president of the grand old party continued.

Whether I become Congress president or not, this will become very clear when the presidential elections of the Congress party take place

RAHUL GANDHI, Congress leader

Addressing a press conference here on the second day of the Congress's Bharat Jodo Yatra, the former party chief said the Kanyakumari-Kashmir march was being undertaken to undo the "damage" done by the BJP-RSS and would also help in forging Opposition unity, even though that is a separate exercise.

"This foot-march is a journey. It is also an attempt to understand the ground reality in the country, and to undo some of the damages the RSS and BJP have meted out to the nation. The fight is not between two political parties. It is between the structure of the Indian state and those opposing it. It won't be an easy fight. They have already captured the institutional framework of India, and they want to impose their vision on the entire country. We can't allow that. India has multiple visions and everyone should be able to live in harmony," Rahul said.

Asked about the second-rung party leaders taking exception to how matters are being handled in the Congress high command, Rahul said, "The BJP has its own ways of putting pressure on leaders of other parties. You all know how the Centre is using the CBI, ED and I-T department to intimidate other parties."

He also added that unity of the Opposition parties is the need of the hour. "Everyone has a role in the fight to defeat the BJP. Discussions are underway," he added.

A controversy erupted over Gandhi's white T-shirt with the BJP taking a dig at him by suggesting that he was wearing a T-shirt costing over Rs 41,000 during the Bharat Jodo Yatra. The Congress hit back saying the ruling party should also talk about Prime Minister Narendra Modi's ₹10-lakh suit and ₹1.5 lakh glasses.

Responding to a question at the presser, Gandhi said he is not leading the yatra but is only participating in it. Asked if he would become the Congress president, he said, "Whether I become president or not, this will become very clear when the presidential elections of the Congress party take place."

No environ clearance needed for R&D plans

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

IN further relaxation of green norms, the environment ministry has now exempted Research & Development (R&D) activities at pilot scale carried out for the infrastructure projects from prior environment clearance needed under the law.

The decision was taken as the ministry has been receiving requests from project proponents for clarifying applicability of Environment Impact Assessment (EIA) notification, 2006 for undertaking various research and development activities.

At present, such matters were referred on a case to case basis to the expert appraisal committee to address policy issues for taking a considered view on the same. However, the environment ministy in view of the receipt of other such representations seeking clarification on applicability of EIA notification 2006 for undertaking various R&D activities, examined the matter afresh in light of the earlier recommendations.

"Accordingly, it is hereby clarified that R&D activities on laboratory scale/pilot scale carried out for the projects or activities which are listed in the schedule to the EIA Notification 2006, as amended and where no commercial production is involved, are exempted from the requirements of prior EC, provided such activities are clearly mentioned as R&D activities in the consents obtained from the respective State Pollution Control Boards," said a directive issued by the ministry.

The EIA Notification, 2006, divides all projects into two categories-Category A and Category B-based on potential impacts on environment, human health and natural and manmade resources. The projects include coal mining, hydropower, thermal power, roads, highways, ports and airports among others.

However, of the two organisations, Oxfam India's reaction was stronger, pointing out that "during these 35 plus hours of non-stop survey", its "team members were no allowed to leave the premises; the internet was shut down all the mobile phones were confiscated".

Pointing out that the IT survey team "took away hundreds of pages of data pertaining to finances and programs of Oxfam India", a statement by the organisation said that "they also took all the data by cloning the Oxfam India server and the private mobile phones of the Senior leadership team and the Finance lead"

While claiming that the survey team was "polite and professional", the "process of a survey with such sweeping powers and broad ambit resulted in disappointing Oxfam India, an organisation that has been law-abiding and community centric".

According to Oxfam India, the past eight months have been distressing for the organisation. The Ministry of Home Affairs denied Oxfam India its FCRA renewal licence in December 2021 and at a time when it was conducting one of the largest civil society responses to the Covid crisis across 16 states in India.

On its part, CPR also said in a statement that "as one of 24 research institutes of the Indian Council of Social Sciences Research network, CPR has all required approvals and sanctions, and is authorised by the government as a recipient under the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act.

CPR added that it holds itself to the "highest standards of compliance and are confident that we have done nothing wrong. We are committed to working with the authorities to address any questions they might have".

Oxfam India said that it "is compliant with Indian laws and has filed all its statutory compliances, including Income Tax and Foreign Contribution Regulation Act (FCRA) returns."

PROBLEM STATEMENT
The Surya river has two bridges – old and new; both are two lanes while the three-lane highway is connected
The old bridge of the Surya river is partially dug up, despite being operational
Motorists get confused when they approach the bridge, causing frequent accidents. At the last minute, they suddenly have to swerve to get on the bridge either on left or right
There are no signages and bumpers to guide motorists

The Ahmedabad-Mumbai highway is one of the most crowded and badly designed highways in the country

Many parts are pockmarked; traffic discipline is very low

Highway used by heavy trucks for moving goods between Delhi and Mumbai; since truckers mostly occupy the right lane, so motorists are forced to overtake dangerously from the left

Few hospitals close to 'black spots' (stretches of 500 metres with 5 road crashes each in 3 calendar years or 10 fatalities combined)

The three-lane highway that narrows to two lanes at Palghar (where the accident took place) lacks a signboard warning for motorists

100 people have died and 50 injured in around 100 accidents on the Manor (Palghar)-Achad stretch in last 2 years

Too many potholes on the 106-km stretch from Ghodbunder to Achhad

Huge craters on the Vapi to Daman stretch, in the middle of the highway

The 52-km stretch has nearly a dozen accident spots, including the bridge over the Surya river

Condition of roads in inaccessible parts of Talasari, Dahanu, Palghar, Vasai, Wada, Vikramgarh, Jawhar and Mokhada talukas in Palghar district is appalling

Mining to affect bunkers: Army to HC

The court had sought a report on damage to bunkers due to mining in Punjab border dists

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

THE Army has told the Punjab and Haryana High Court that mining activities will affect the structural integrity and strength of bunkers in their proximity in Punjab's border districts.

The Army has said in case of any attack, mining will restrict troop movement, leading to delays in reinforcement and counterattack tasks. The Army response came following the court's direction to it for a report on the damage to spurs and bunkers due to mining activities.

Captain Ashima Das, officer-in-charge (legal cell) of Western Command at Chandimandir gave the Army's response on Thursday in an affidavit filed before the bench of Chief Justice Ravi Shanker Jha and Justice Arun Palli.

It was submitted in the affidavit that mining would cause soil erosion, thereby causing bunkers to cave in, directly affecting the defence preparedness.

The mining of a riverbed is likely to change the course of the river and alter the depth of the river at various places, disrupting the defence layouts, said the affidavit.

"The mining can not only restrict troop movement but will also affect the natural drainage of water, leading to unpredictable flooding," said the affidavit. The affidavit followed the High Court order on Aug 30 in which the bench directed the respondent Union of India to obtain a report from the Army authorities on the damage caused and the threat the national security.

On August 29, the Army had asserted that illegal mining had been a facilitation factor for the nexus between drug smugglers, terrorists and anti-national elements nurtured by Pakistan's ISI.

In another affidavit filed by the Army in a related matter, the Army had earlier stated that ditches and gorges formed following illegal mining facilitated cross-border infiltration. Unplanned and uncontrolled mining may also cause changes in the natural water drainage and even change the river's course, resulting in the army posts being susceptible to flooding.

50 booked as mining mafia attacks cops

Chandigarh: The mining mafia is back in Haryana's Nuh, near the national capital. The state police have booked at least 50 people a day after a government team conducting a raid on an illegal mine was pelted with stones in a Nuh village. The state police, which was a part of the raiding officials, has identified five attackers and set up three check posts at the state border with Rajasthan. These posts are also manned by personnel drawn from the mining department and Regional Transport Authority (RTA). Around two months ago, a dumper truck carrying stones from an illegal mine had allegedly knocked down a deputy superintendent of police in another Nuh village. ENS

EC notice to BJP MLA for forged caste papers

MUKESH RANJAN @Ranchi

NOW, the sword of disqualification from the Assembly hangs over another MLA in Jharkhand. The Election Commission of India has issued a notice to BJP leader Samri Lal over allegations that he forged his caste certificate during the 2019 state Assembly polls.

The ECI's notice followed after a delegation of Congress and Jharkhand Mukti Morcha leaders submitted a memorandum to Governor Ramesh Bais, seeking Lal's disqualification in light of the accusations.

Lal, however, has hit back, saying he has been contesting elections since 1985. "I was a Jharkhandi when I contested on JMM ticket in 2005 and 2009, but as soon as I got elected on BJP ticket, I became a non-Jharkhandi," he said, adding that he is a Jharkhandi as his grandfather migrated here before Independence, and his father worked in Ranchi, which gives him the right to get reservation.

Lal is the eighth MLA facing disqualification in Jharkhand, after BJP's Babulala Marandi; Congress' Pradeep Yadav who defected from JVM (P), and Irfan Ansari, Rajesh Kacchap and Naman Bixal Kongari who were arrested by Kolkata police with huge cash; and Chief Minister Hemant Soren and his brother Basant Soren, who are accused in an office of profit case.

Lal had contested from the Kanke seat, which is reserved for the Scheduled Castes. Congress leader Suresh Baitha had alleged that Lal originally does not belong to Jharkhand and hence cannot claim the caste benefit here.

Later, a caste scrutiny panel, set up by the state, had observed that Samri's father had migrated to Jharkhand from Rajasthan and hence he cannot claim reservation here in Jharkhand.

Tezpur Litchi carving niche globally: PM Modi

Assam's Tezpur Litchi has mesmerised Prime Minister Narendra Modi. He believes it will help further the spirit of "vocal for local" and its taste will appeal to people the world over. Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma had sent him a packet of fresh Tezpur litchis and the PM appreciated the warm gesture. "Being grown in organic settings, the high-quality GI-tagged Tezpur Litchi is carving out a niche for itself in the international market," Modi wrote to the CM. In June this year, Tezpur Litchi had made it to the markets of the United Kingdom. It is widely popular for its excellent quality, flavour and juicy pulp. Its colour is also very attractive.

Win a medal, land a govt job initiative

The Assam government is going the extra mile to encourage sportspersons. Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma recently announced that every single medal winner of the National Games in Gujarat would land a government job. Earlier, ace sprinter Hima Das, boxer Lovlina Borgohain and lawn ball player Nayanmoni Saikia were appointed as DSPs for excellence in international events. Hima is the first Indian athlete to win a gold medal at the IAAF World U20 Championships. Lovlina is a bronze medalist at the Tokyo Olympics while Nayanmoni had won gold at a team event in the recently-held Commonwealth Games in London.

Two regional parties merge to stop BJP blitz

Two relatively new regional political parties of Assam – Assam Anchalik Dal and Anchalik Gana Morcha – merged to emerge as Jatiya Dal, Assam. The merger was aimed at stopping the BJP's juggernaut. Rajya Sabha member Ajit Kumar Bhuyan will head it. Ahead of last year's Assam elections, regional parties Asom Jatiya Parishad and Raijor Dal were floated. Bhuyan said Assam lacks leaders, who strongly believe in regionalism, and as a result, forces like the BJP got strengthened. He said Jatiya Dal had been floated to fill that void. He said the party would try to play the role of a strong regional force.

SC asks for record of proceedings in Bilkis Bano case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Friday asked the Gujarat government to file the entire record of the proceedings in the Bilkis Bano gang-rape case within two weeks, including the remission order given to the 11 convicts in the case.

The bench of justices Ajay Rastogi and B V Nagarathna issued notice in the petition filed by Trinamool Congress leader Mahua Moitra challenging the remission of sentence granted to the 11 convicts. The court also issued notices to the convicts and the Gujarat government.

It posted the petition for hearing on October 14.

Earlier, the court had issued a notice on a plea filed by CPI (M) leader Subhashini Ali, journalist Revathy Laul and activist Roop Rekha Rani challenging the remission of sentences.

The court had asked the petitioners to implead the 11 convicts, who have been granted remission, as parties in the matter.

During Friday's hearing, advocate Rishi Malhotra, appearing for one of the convicts, said the petitioners had on Thursday filed an application to implead the convicts.

"Notices have to go to the impleaded respondents," he said when asked why he has filed an application for adjournment of proceedings.

"I'm against this impleadment business in criminal matters. Either in one of the petitions, let them be impleaded as a party," Malhotra said.

Bilkis Bano was 21 years old and five-month pregnant when she was gang-raped while fleeing the riots that broke out after the Godhra train burning incident. Her three-year-old daughter was among the seven family members killed. A special CBI court in Mumbai had on January 21, 2008, sentenced the 11 to life imprisonment on charges of gang-rape of Bilkis Bano and murder of seven members of her family.

Their conviction was later upheld by the Bombay High Court and the Supreme Court. The 11 men walked out free from the Godhra sub-jail on August 15 after the Gujarat government allowed their release under its remission policy.

Maha districts suffer for want of guardian ministers

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

MAHARASHTRA CM Eknath Shinde expanded his cabinet 40 days after the government was formed, but a month after the portfolios were allocated, no guardian ministers were appointed for districts.

Maharashtra Congress leader Atul Londe said it has never happened in the history of the state that the districts have no guardian ministers. "The unconstitutional Shinde-Fadnavis government has hampered development in the state. We have never witnessed such a delay in cabinet expansion or appointment of guardian ministers. The District Planning Development Committee is chaired by the guardian minister and all local body presidents are its members. It has not been in operation for one month. Besides, the Shinde government stopped release of funds for all the sanctioned work from April. There is huge chaos at ground level," Londe said.

NCP spokesperson Sanjay Tatkare said DPDC is a crucial body for the development of rural areas. "Contractors are waiting for funds to be released while infrastructure works, and health and education projects are also getting hampered due to absence of DPDC," he added.

Spend local funds for central housing scheme: Mamata to TMC MPs, MLAs

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

IN an apparent image makeover bid amid allegations of scams and corruption against her party functionaries, West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee has asked TMC MPs and MLAs to contribute to the rural housing schemes for the poor, a Centre-funded project, by spending their local area development fund for one year.

The decision hints at Mamata's desperation to do something for the poor ahead of 2023 panchayat polls, political observers say. The Centre is not releasing funds for MGNREGA and housing scheme for Bengal after finding lax implementation in the state.

"TMC is on the back foot following the arrests of Partha Chatterjee and Anubrata Mondal by central agencies. Raids on Malay Ghatak by the CBI proved more damaging. Mamata now wants to portray Bengal as a welfare state," said a party leader, adding that at a time when party leaders are accused in multi-crore scams, villagers are not getting jobs or houses.

TMC has 213 MLAs and 39 MPs, including those in Rajya Sabha. Each MP and MLA gets ₹5 crore and ₹60 lakh, respectively, every year for local area development. "The MP and MLA funds together make over ₹320 crore. It can be used to take the rural housing scheme forward in the absence of central funds," said a bureaucrat in the state secretariat.

Bishop raid: MP govt to probe conversion angle

ANURAAG SINGH @Bhopal

A day after the Economic Offences Wing (EOW) recovered ₹1.65 crore and $18,000 in cash from the premises of PC Singh, the Church of North India Jabalpur Diocese bishop, the Madhya Pradesh government on Friday ordered a three-pronged probe into the activities of the concerned church and related trust headed by Singh.

MP Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan said, "Massive financial irregularities on multiple counts have come to the fore after the EOW action. Major fraud and irregularities in lease renewal of the entities of the trust, non-payment of relevant taxes worth around ₹7 crore have come to light. The EOW search has also resulted in seizure of a huge volume of cash including foreign currency, documents of 17 properties, 48 bank accounts and eight four wheelers.

We've decided on a three-pronged probe into the entire matter." Chouhan added that the documents seized during the search indicate the possibility of the funds being used for illegal activities, including illegal religious conversion. "The EOW will conduct a detailed probe into this serious issue, while the Jabalpur district administration will also have its own probe," he said.

"Complaints about land leased by the government to the trust and allied entities for religious, educational and medical purposes, actually being used for commercial purposes will also be investigated," Chauhan stated.

Tap water a first for this Guj tribal hamlet

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

Villagers collecting water from the newly-installed pipeline at Sada village of Dediapada taluka | EXPRESS

FOR all the vaunted claims of a 'Gujarat model', it has taken the state authorities 75 years to bring tapped water to Sada village of Dediapada taluka in Narmada district. And even as the country celebrates Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav, Sada's 250 tribal inhabitants, do not have much to cheer: there is no power and no roads lead to it.

Located on the banks of Karjan river, Sada is accessible by boats. While there is considerable distance between the houses, Karjan river's high levels of turbidity makes it unfit for consumption. Until recently, the villagers used home remedies to treat the river water by digging 50-metre seepage pits close to the banks.

Now, however, some Gujarat engineers have worked wonders to provide 24-hour running water to this village with its odd geographical conditions. Water gushed from taps in the 45 households on Sept. 7. Gujarat Water Supply and Sewerage Board Superintending Engineer Shashi Vaghela said, "Sada is geographically undulating and has scattered population. There is no road connectivity, no electricity, no cellular network coverage and no means of transportation except by boat. All this posed a huge challenge to provide drinking water infrastructural facility".

Vaghela said that the plan was to create a system which is sustainable and can be operated and maintained by the panchayat. "To achieve the goal to supply piped filtered water to each house, we used solar energy for electricity and the Karjan dam reservoir as a sustainable surface water source. This was done by arranging a floating platform to ensure availability of water all through the year," he said.

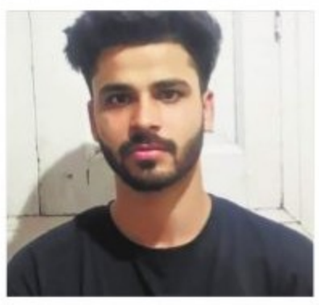
For years, Sada residents depended on water from Karjan dam, said Vasava Fatesing. "Since there is no transportation facility, we are forced to use boats. Besides, there is no hand pump or bore wells in our village," he said.

"Many years ago, a hand-bore hand pump was installed and it would provide water for a few months till January end. As the water level in the dam goes down, the hand pump runs dry. So, we used to dig wells on the river banks for drinking water. The scorching summers made life difficult, if not impossible. Now the taps bring clean water to our homes," Fatesing said.

For Sada's womenfolk, fetching water from the river was a tiring chore. "We would often end up consuming muddy water. And in summer, we would walk the one-and-a-half km distance between the river and their homes many times over," said Surmila. Now, the tap water has proved to be a blessing for Surmila and all the other womenfolk.

Self-taught, street food seller's son cracks NEET

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar



A barbeque seller's son in north Kashmir's Pattan has qualified NEET in the first attempt. This, despite the fact that the boy belonging to the poor family did not take any tuition and self-studied for the NEET-UG examination.

Mehraj-ud-Din Khan, 20, the eldest of four children of Gulistan Ahmad Khan – are residents of Guwah village at Pattan in north Kashmir's Baramulla district. Mehraj qualified by securing 591 marks out of total 720 in his maiden appearance.

Mehraj's father Gulshan Ahmad runs a barbeque shop in the village and he used to assist his father in the shop.

"I would help my father at the shop at least one week every month. My main responsibility is to man the shop when my father would not be around," said Mehraj.

On his preparation, Mehraj said,"I have self-taught myself and had been focused all through. I would study for 8-10 hours in a day."

"The internet would be a distraction for most aspirants. However, I cut down on my internet use to study and it proved very helpful," he said. While he had no mobile phone, his parents bought him one once the Covid lockdown ended.

When he was in class VIII, Mehraj wanted to become a doctor and had been studying very hard since then to realise his and his family's dream. Mehraj's younger brother is a class X student, while his two sisters are in class XI and VI.

CHARLES GREETS CROWD, GETS READY TO BE MONARCH

LONDON

KING Charles III greeted crowds singing "God Save the King" outside Buckingham Palace on Friday before making his inaugural address to Britain and the Commonwealth after the death of his mother, Queen Elizabeth II.

The smiling 73-year-old—the oldest monarch to ascend to the throne—shook hands and accepted flowers from well-wishers after returning to London from Scotland at the start of his reign.

One kissed his hand, another kissed his cheek, and some sang the national anthem, adapted to a new monarch following the passing of the 96-year-old Elizabeth after seven decades on the throne.

Church bells and ceremonial gun salutes rang out across the UK and Britain's overseas territories in honour of the late queen, who died 'peacefully' at her beloved Balmoral retreat in Scotland after a year of ill-health.

Elizabeth II had reigned for a record-breaking 70 years, a source of stability in a period of extraordinary change whose death sparked heartfelt tributes from across the world.

"During this period of mourning and change, my family and I will be comforted and sustained by our knowledge of the respect and deep affection in which the queen was so widely held," Charles said in a statement on Thursday.

Buckingham Palace said the king and other members of the royal family would observe an extended mourning period from now until seven days after her funeral.

The date of the funeral, which will be attended by heads of state and government, has yet to be officially announced but is expected to be on Monday, September 19.

Meanwhile, British railway and postal workers have halted upcoming walkouts following the death of Queen Elizabeth II.

The Communication Workers Union had planned to continue a 48-hour stoppage on Friday but it was called off "out of respect for" the queen, CWU general secretary Dave Ward said.

The Trades Union Congress said it had postponed its four-day annual conference due to have begun Sunday.

"The UK's trade union movement sends our condolences to the Royal Family on the death of the Queen, and recognises her many years of dedicated service to the country," the TUC added in a statement. AFP

Queen's state funeral to be Britain's first since 1965

LONDON

THE Queen's state funeral will be UK's first in more than half a century, with former PM Winston Churchill being the last head of state to be accorded with this honour in 1965.

Unlike Prince Philip, who had a royal ceremonial funeral, the Queen will have a state funeral, which is usually reserved for the sovereign.

A state funeral typically begins with the body of the deceased being carried on a gun carriage, which is drawn by sailors from the Royal Navy, as part of a military procession. The only monarch not to be given a state funeral in the last 295 years was Edward VIII, who abdicated

The last state funeral in the UK was Churchill's in 1965 and the last state funeral for a sovereign was for the Queen's father, George VI, in 1952. The Queen's coffin will be lying in state, which is a tradition in which the body of the deceased is placed in a state building for the public to pay their tributes.

The Queen will lie in state in Westminster Hall for about four days before her funeral, as per BBC. PTI

Japanese Emperor expresses sorrow

Japanese Emperor Naruhito expressed his 'deep sorrow and heartfelt condolences' over the death of Queen Elizabeth II in a statement released Friday. In the statement, in Japanese, Naruhito praised Queen Elizabeth for guiding and encouraging the people of Britain and its Commonwealth nations. "Her constant prayers for global peace and safety impressed many people around the world," Naruhito said

Denmark's queen dampens celebrations

Denmark's Queen Margrethe dampened celebrations to mark her 50 years on the throne of Europe's oldest ruling monarchy following the death of Queen Elizabeth II, the Danish royal palace said Friday. Queen Margrethe, 82, whose reign is now Europe's longest, has praised Britain's late monarch as "a towering figure among European monarchs and a great inspiration to us all" and that "We shall miss her terribly."

Queen was radiant, says Boris

Ex-UK PM Johnson said the Queen was "as radiant, knowledgeable and fascinated by politics as I can remember and as wise in her advice as anyone I know, if not wiser". "That impulse to do her duty carried her right through to her tenth decade to the very moment in Balmoral... With her attentive and enquiring mind she became the greatest statesman...," quoted BBC

Mandela had a name for Queen

Contravening royal etiquette, Nelson Mandela often referred to Queen Elizabeth II by a special name out of respect and affection, South Africa's Nelson Mandela Foundation said on Friday. The special name that Mandela had for the Queen was 'Motlalepula', which means 'to come with rain' in the indigenous Setswana language, it said in a statement

UN asks for big help in flood-hit Pakistan

ISLAMABAD

UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres said on Friday that the world owes impoverished Pakistan 'massive' help in recovering from the summer's devastating floods because the country bears less blame than many other nations for climate change, which experts say contributed to the deluge.

Nature, the UN chief said in Islamabad, has attacked Pakistan, which contributes less than 1% of global emissions, according to multiple experts.

Nations that "are more responsible for climate change ... should have faced this challenge," said Guterres, sitting next to Pakistani Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif.

"We are heading into a disaster," Guterres added. "We have waged war on nature and nature is tracking back and striking back in a devastating way. Today in Pakistan, tomorrow in any of your countries."

The UN chief's trip comes less than two weeks after Guterres appealed for $160 million in emergency funding to help those affected by the monsoon rains and floods that Pakistan says have caused at least $10 billion in damages.

"I appeal for massive support from the international community as Pakistan responds to this climate catastrophe," Guterres tweeted after landing in Pakistan earlier Friday.

He said other nations contributing to climate change are obligated to reduce emissions and help Pakistan. He assured Sharif that his voice was "entirely at the service of the Pakistani government and the Pakistani people" and that "the entire UN system is at the service of Pakistan."

"Pakistan has not contributed in a meaningful way to climate change, the level of emissions in this country is relatively low," Guterres said. "But Pakistan is one of the most dramatically impacted countries by climate change."

On Friday, the first planeload arrived from the US, which Washington says is part of an upcoming $30 million in assistance. More US military planes are expected to arrive in coming days as part of a humanitarian bridge set up by Washington to deliver much-need aid across the country. AP

China warns relations in danger after Xinjiang report

GENEVA

CHINA'S ambassador in Geneva warned on Friday that Beijing's cooperation with the UN rights office was 'in danger' after it published a report listing serious abuses in the Xinjiang region.

"We cannot conduct cooperation as if nothing happened, when we were hurt by this exercise," ambassador Chen Xu told reporters in a virtual briefing organised by the ACANU association of UN correspondents.

The report brought the UN seal to allegations long made by campaigners and others, who accuse Beijing of a litany of abuses in Xinjiang, including detaining more than one million Uyghurs and other Muslims and forcibly sterilising women. Beijing has vehemently rejected such charges and criticised the report, accusing the UN of becoming a "thug and accomplice of the US and the West".

> The report was based on political motivations. The office has been catering to the political manoeuvres of some countries... to contain China
> Chen Xu, Ambassador

Chen stressed that Beijing had expressed its willingness to deepen cooperation with the UN rights office during Bachelet's visit to China—the first by a UN rights chief in 17 years—last May.

"We reached agreement on a whole set of bilateral cooperation mechanisms," he pointed out. But, he lamented, in the face of "China's utmost sincerity, the office closed the door... on cooperation by releasing the so-called assessment."

"The release of an assessment of this nature, I think, puts everything in danger." Chen stressed that Beijing remained an ardent supporter of the UN as a whole, and questioned whether the rights office could really be said to represent the global body. AFP

Biz mourns queen as souvenir sales boom

LONDON

BRITISH business paid tribute to Queen Elizabeth II, with department stores shut, flags lowered, clocks stopped and meetings postponed, but souvenir sales boomed near Buckingham Palace as well-wishers thronged.

London's iconic Selfridges, on the capital's Oxford Street shopping thoroughfare and nearby Liberty on Regent Street closed out of respect for the queen.

Many company headquarters lowered flags, while the Bank of England has delayed an interest rate meeting until after the funeral.

Fortnum and Mason, the Royal Family's tea supplier, was shuttered and even stopped the clock on the front of its luxury department store in London's Piccadilly quarter.

"We are proud to have held a warrant from Her Majesty since 1954, and to have served her and the royal household throughout her life," F&M said on their website.

Ukraine claws back some territories

Kyiv: Ukrainian forces on Friday claimed new success in their counteroffensive against Russian forces in the country's east, taking control of a sizeable village and pushing toward an important transport junction. The United States' top diplomat and the head of NATO noted the advances, but cautioned that the war is likely to drag on for months. Ukraine's military also said it launched new attacks on Russian pontoon bridges used to bring supplies across the Dnieper River to Kherson, one of the largest Russian-occupied cities, and the adjacent region. Ukrainian artillery and rocket strikes have left all the fixed bridges across the river unusable, the military's southern command said

GOVERNMENT HAS FAILED TO SHUT ME UP, SAYS JAILED KREMLIN CRITIC

TALLINN

RUSSIAN opposition politician Ilya Yashin may be in jail, but he refuses to be silenced.

His social media accounts are regularly updated with anecdotes about his life in detention or video commentary criticising President Vladimir Putin's rule. He gives interviews to media outlets by providing written answers to questions through his lawyers from behind bars.

He uses court appearances as an opportunity to speak out against the Kremlin's devastating war in Ukraine which is exactly what he is being prosecuted for.

"So far the authorities have failed to shut me up," Yashin told AP in a lengthy handwritten letter from a pre-trial detention center in Moscow.

Russian opposition activist Ilya Yashin (right)

"The opposition should speak the truth and stimulate a peaceful anti-war resistance ... It is very important to help people overcome their fear. But one can only truly motivate people with their own personal example," the politician added.

Yashin, 39, is one of the few prominent opposition figures who has refused to leave Russia despite the unprecedented pressure the authorities have mounted on dissent in recent years.

He says leaving Russia would have affected his authority and value as a politician.

A sharp critic of the Kremlin and a vocal ally of imprisoned opposition leader Alexei Navalny Yashin was arrested in June. The authorities charged him with spreading false information about the Russian military—a new criminal offense for which he faces up to 10 years in prison if convicted.

The charges against Yashin reportedly relate to a YouTube livestream video in which he talked about Ukrainians being killed in the Kyiv suburb of Bucha. AP

Govt plans steps to thwart illegal loan apps

Finance minister asks RBI to prepare a whitelist of legal loan apps, cancel registration of dormant NBFCs

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

IN an effort to curb menace of illegal loan apps, finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman has directed the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) to prepare a 'whitelist' of legal loan apps.

She held a high-level meeting on Thursday to discuss various issues related to these apps outside the regular banking channel. The Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY) has been instructed to ensure that only the "whitelist" apps are hosted on the app stores. Meanwhile, the RBI will monitor the mule/rented accounts that may be used for money laundering and to review/cancel dormant non-banking financial companies (NBFCs) to avoid their misuse.

"RBI will ensure that registration of payment aggregators is completed within a timeframe and no unregistered payment aggregator be allowed to function after that," a government statement said. It further added that the Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA) will identify shell firms and deregister them to prevent their misuse. The minister asked the relevant ministries to create cyber awareness for customers, bank employees, law enforcement agencies and other stakeholders. The above decisions were taken after several complaints of blackmailing and criminal intimidation surfaced in the media against these apps. In the meeting, the she also noted the possibility of money laundering, tax evasions, breach/privacy of data and misuse of unregulated payment aggregators, shell companies, defunct NBFCs etc for perpetrating such actions.

As per an RBI estimate, there were over 1,100 loan apps available for Indian Android users across 80 application stores (till last year) and of these as many as 600 were illegal apps. The Enforcement Directorate is believed to be investigating over 300 of them.

"Issues from illegal apps have been concerning and it is great to see action at the highest level of the government to address them. A concerted multi-stakeholder approach, holistically hitting every nook of the problem will pave the way for a robust and safe digital lending ecosystem," Sugandha Saxena, CEO, Fintech Association for Consumer Empowerment said.

JAPAN

UNVEILS STEPS TO OFFSET HIT FROM RISING PRICES

Japan's government on Friday unveiled near-term stimulus steps to soften the economic blow of high food and energy prices on low-income households, businesses and farmers. The move by the government to roll out new and extend existing policies highlights Fumio Kishida's resolve to tackle the impact of rising cost pressures by providing support to firms and consumers. "Protecting the lives of people and activity of businesses in the midst of surging global prices is one of the top priorities of the Kishida administration," Kishida said on Friday at a meeting of a panel tasked with rising prices and wage issues. As part of the steps, the government will offer 50,000 yen ($350) in financial support to low-income households exempt from paying resident taxes to help them pay for rising costs of electricity, gas and food. Other steps included an extension of existing subsidies to keep the price of animal feed for livestock and dairy farmers down beyond October, as well as providing support to farmers who made efforts to reduce the use of chemical fertilisers.

CHINA

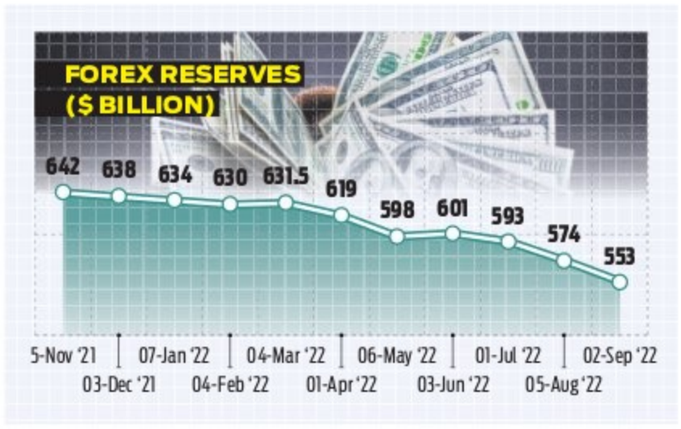
AUG AUTO SALES JUMP 32% WITH STRONG EV DEMAND

China's auto sales reached 2.38 million units in August, increasing 32.1 per cent from a year ago, as they extended a recovery led by electric vehicles (EV) whose sales have been boosted by government incentives. Sales for the first eight months were 1.7 per cent higher than the same period in 2021, data from the China Association of Automobile Manufacturers (CAAM) showed on Friday. August sales of new energy vehicles, which include pure electric vehicles, plug-in hybrids and hydrogen fuel-cell vehicles, increased 100 per cent from the previous year. CAAM tracks broader auto sales including passenger vehicles, buses and trucks while the China Passenger Car Association, which reported July sales on Thursday, focuses on retail sales of cars. China's vehicle exports also increased 65 per cent from a year ago, CAAM added, with electric vehicles accounting for 27 per cent of them. August sales, however, were 1.5 per cent lower than July.

SOUTH KOREA

'STABILISING PRICES BETTER FOR LONG-TERM GROWTH'

South Korea's central bank said on Thursday it was better for long-term growth to stabilise prices quickly as it gave insight into its decision for an unusually large rate hike in July in its quarterly monetary policy report. As part of an explanation for the move, it said fast and large rate hikes were needed for now and that the dollar-won exchange rate had also been a factor. The BOK has raised its policy rate by a total of two percentage points to 2.50% since August last year as it tries to tame inflation, which is running near 24-year highs, with the last move a 25 basis point rate increase in August. It delivered an unprecedented 50-basis-point hike in July - the first and only such move since the BOK adopted the current policy framework in 1999. Rhee Chang-yong, governor of the Bank of Korea, said at the time his bank would try not to raise interest rates by a bigger margin than the usual 25 basis points when it needs to tighten monetary policy again. The central bank has said it sees inflation staying at high levels for a longer-than-expected period.



India's forex reserves down $90 bn from peak

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

INDIA'S foreign exchange (forex) reserve has fallen by another $7.9 billion in the week ending September 2, 2022, to $553 billion.

The country's forex reserve has shrunk by almost $90 billion from the peak of $642 billion in November 2021.

Forex reserves at current level can pay for 9 months of imports. India's monthly import bill is around $63 billion.

The continuous drop in the country's forex reserve has been largely attributed to the central bank's efforts to support the rupee, which has fallen 8% over the past one year.

"Since June end forex assets are down around $32 billion. We estimate around $8-10 billion could be on account of valuation impact and rest due to sales in the spot market," says Anindya Banerjee, VP, Currency Derivatives & Interest Rate Derivatives at Kotak Securities. The forex reserves comprise 90% of foreign currency assets and the rest is gold and special drawing rights (SDRs) with the IMF. As per Banerjee, the drop in reserves during August was largely due to the plunge in value of major reserve currencies -- Euro, Pound sterling and Swiss Franc etc -- against the US dollar.

As per economist Lekha Chakraborty, the hot money component of forex is volatile because of interest rate differentials. "With the Fed Reserve making a series of hikes in interest rates, emerging economies including India are experiencing capital flight and this is affecting our forex reserves," she added. She thinks interest rate defense by the RBI is a significant measure to prevent capital flight, and RBI is doing its job.

PLI scheme: Padget first local electronics company to get fund

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PADGET ELECTRONICS, a subsidiary of Dixon Technologies, is the first domestic company to get incentives under the government's production-linked incentive (PLI) scheme for the large-scale electronics manufacturing sector.

As per Niti Aayog, nearly 32 beneficiaries had been approved under the PLI scheme for large-scale electronics manufacturing, of which 10 (5 global and 5 domestic companies) were approved for mobile manufacturing.

"In the first-ever disbursement under the PLI schemes, envisioned by the Prime Minister, the empowered committee headed by CEO, NITI Aayog, today approved incentive for mobile manufacturing under the 'Large-Scale Electronics Manufacturing' sector," said Niti Aayog in a press note.

The applicants under this scheme had undertaken sales of ₹1,67,770 crore, including export of ₹65,240 crore for the quarter ending June 2022. The government believes this PLI scheme has generated employment of 28,636. "Over past 3 years, exports have grown by 139%. The applications for incentives by the other beneficiaries will also be considered for approval soon," said Niti Aayog.

The PLI scheme, which includes manufacturing of mobile phones and specified electronic components, was approved in March 2020, with a total outlay of ₹38,645 crore. The scheme is expected to bring in additional production to the tune of ₹10,69,432 crore and generate employment for 7,00,000 people.

Airtel to roll out 5G services within month: CEO

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TELECOM service provider Bharti Airtel will start its 5G services within a month and by December the company will cover key metro cities, Airtel CEO Gopal Vittal said on Friday.

In a letter to the customer, Vittal said the the company will cover urban India by 2023. "We expect to launch our 5G services within a month. By December, we should have coverage in key metros. After that we will expand rapidly to cover the entire country. We expect to cover all of urban India by the end of 2023," said Vittal in the letter.

Vittal further said Airtel 5G will deliver significantly higher speeds as compare to a 4G network. According to him, it could be anywhere between 20 to 30 times the speed of 4G network. This will allow a user to boot up an application or download a heavy file in no time.

"Airtel 5G will also enable differential quality for special requirements, something called network slicing. So, if you are a gamer, and want a flawless experience, we will be able to slice the network for you. Or if you are working from home and want a consistent experience, we will deliver it for you," said the CEO of the telecom service provider.

India's second-largest telecom service provider spent ₹43,040 crore in 5G spectrum auction to acquire 19867.8 MHz spectrum in 900 MHz, 1800 MHz, 2100MHz, 3300 MHz and 26 GHz frequency bands. Unlike its competitor Reliance Jio, Airtel gave a miss to the coveted 700 MHz airwave, which can provide 6-10 kilometres of signal range with one tower, and forms a good base for 5G.

The country's largest telecom service provider Reliance Jio will roll out its 5G services in India by Diwali. The company pledged to invest ₹2 lakh crore for 5G services. The debt-laden Vodafone Idea is yet to spell its 5G plans.

Tata Motors announces electric Tiago, day after M&M unveiled e-XUV400

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

A day after Mahindra & Mahindra (M&M) unveiled its all-electric XUV400, Tata Motors on Friday announced another addition to its electric vehicle (EV) line-up – Tiago EV.

The EV will be launched later this month and may turn out to be one of most affordable electric four-wheelers in the market.

Tata is launching electric Tiago more than four years after showcasing it at the Auto Expo 2018.

Currently, Tata has three electric cars in its line-up: Tata Nexon EV Max (₹18.34 lakh), Tata Tigor EV (₹12.49 lakh),

Tata Nexon EV Prime (₹14.99 lakh) and lead the EV market in India, with a lion's share of 88%. Shailesh Chandra, managing director, Tata Motors Passenger Vehicles, said, "As early entrants, we have shaped the market and seen it grow with Nexon EV and Tigor EV. We have over 40,000 Tata EVs plying on road and we are grateful to the early adopters who have shown faith in the brand." He added, "Earlier this year, we had unveiled our 3 phased approach towards building a comprehensive EV portfolio…As a leader, we are now pioneering the next phase of the EV market expansion, which will bring all the EV benefits of an exciting yet easy drive, silent cabin, low cost of ownership to a more accessible level."

Tata Motors has set a target of launching 10 electric models over the next 5 years, for which it is spending over a billion dollars. The announcement from Tata comes after rival carmaker M&M unveiled its first EV-XUV400 - on Thursday. The electric SUV will directly compete against Tata Nexon EV.

Amid volatility in mkt, net inflows into equity mutual funds at 10-month low

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

EXTREME volatility in equity markets and concerns over high valuations seem to have deterred investment in equity mutual funds in August.

Net inflows into equity funds fell to an 1-month low of ₹6,119 crore. This is the lowest net inflows into equity mutual funds since October 2021, when such funds received a net ₹5,214 crore.

From November 2011 to June 2022, equity mutual funds were consistently receiving net inflows of ₹10,000 or more. In March this year, inflows in equity funds had peaked at ₹28,500 crore.

"There is usually a psychological tendency amongst domestic investors to book profits near all-time highs (especially when the markets have corrected post hitting similar levels in recent past), which is also getting reflected in the lower quantum of inflows," Arun Kumar, Head of Research, FundsIndia.

Debt funds compensate low inflows in equity MFs

The moderate inflows into equity funds were compensated by strong inflows into debt funds, which received a net of `49,000 crore against `4,930 crore in July. This helped the MF industry post a net inflow of `65,000 crore

The BSE Sensex crossed 60,000 levels on 17 August from the low of 51,360 on 17 June. Both the Nifty and Sensex were trading around 23 price-to-earnings ratio.

However, the moderate inflows into equity funds were compensated by strong inflows into debt funds, which received a net of ₹49,000 crore against ₹4,930 crore in July. This helped the mutual fund industry post a healthy net inflow of ₹65,000 crore.

The net asset under management (AUM) of the mutual fund industry at the end of August was ₹39.33 lak crore, which is 7% higher than the same month last year.

Monthly SIP contribution in August was at ₹12,693.45 crores. The number of SIP accounts stood at all-time high 5.71 crore at the end of August, crossing the June 2022 high of 5.61 crore.

SIP AUM at the end of August 2022 stood at ₹6.40 lakh crore. Over 21 lakh new SIPs were registered during the month.

AI vacating govt premises, relocating to Gurugram

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AIR INDIA, now operated and owned by the Tata Group, has started vacating its offices, which are currently being operated from government-owned properties, from this month, as part of its strategy to consolidate workspaces across the country.

Staff working from these locations will move to an interim office space in Gurugram, before ultimately relocating to a campus at the newly-constructed Vatika One-on-One campus in early 2023.

Together with the relocation and consolidation of offices, the airline's regionalized organisation structure will be progressively disbanded and replaced with a centralised one. This, according to the airline, will allow consolidation of presently-dispersed teams, co-location of managers with their teams and physical adjacency of related functions.

Besides Air India, the Vatika One-on-One campus is being provisioned to accommodate Air India Express and AirAsia India, and the establishment of group-level functions for better capability, effectiveness and economies of scale across the airlines.

INOX, PVR shares tank as critics reject Brahmastra

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

SHARE prices of 2 listed multiplex chains - PVR and INOX Leisure - fell over 5% on Friday, wiping out over ₹800 crore of investors' wealth due the combined fall in market capitalisation of the 2 firms. The fall is attributed to negative reviews passed by analysts and movie-goers to the big-budget movie, Brahmastra: Part One- Shiva, on its first day of theatrical release.

PVR stock closed at ₹1,834.15 apiece on the BSE, down 5.27% from the previous day closing, while Inox Leisure shut shop 5.05% lower at ₹493.85 apiece.

Made at a budget of ₹450 crore, the movie is unlikely to make profit. This is a big blow for multiplex operators that in recent times have been led down by dismal performances of big flicks like Laal Singh Chaddha, Liger, Samshera and Samrat Prithviraj.

"Brahmastra is a king-sized disappointment. High on VFX, low on content [second half nosedives]…Brahmastra could've been a game changer, but, alas, it's a missed opportunity…All gloss, no soul," said movie critic and business analyst Taran Adarsh. Other analysts tracking the sector expect it could end with lifetime collections of ₹130-200 crore.

88.44M

Neeraj hurled the spear 88.44 metres to clinch the Diamond League title | AFP

There is a lot of competition in athletics. It's not easy to win. When I won a silver at the Worlds, people started saying, why not gold? People should understand it's not easy to win medals at high-level international competitions.

WILL BALANCE TRAINING & OTHER COMMITMENTS BETTER THIS TIME: NEERAJ

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

SUMMING up, it was an exceptional year. Neeraj Chopra's CV swelled in just over a year — Olympic Champion, World Championships silver and now a Diamond League title — Diamond Trophy. For an athlete, this is the proverbial El Dorado in a non-Olympic year. For Neeraj, it's the culmination of a series of consistent performances and at times his efforts looked ridiculously effortless. He ended the season the way he started — on a high.

Neeraj had been so consistent that his top throws had an average above 88.50m. His series looked a delectable: June 30 at Stockholm: 89.94m, June 14 at Paavo Nurmi Games: 89.30m, August 26 at Lausanne: 89.08m, September 8 at Zurich: 88.44m, and July 21 at Oregon (Q): 88.39m and 88.13 in final.

The beginning though was not easy. The training for the season had started late and Neeraj would not want to repeat those mistakes that led to him missing so many days of training. It was not easy to make a comeback after adding a good 13-14kg. After an eventful season, he has become wiser and felt that he would try to avoid taking up assignments that would force him to stay away from training. He will also be taking a conscious effort to keep a check on his food intake. "I will not rest more and not eat too much and keep my weight in check," he said during an interaction. Getting back to fitness was one of the toughest part for him and his coach Klaus Bartonietz. Shedding those unwanted ounces was the most difficult part of the training.

Balancing social and commercial commitments were not easy either. "It was a new experience for me and I did not know how to balance all those commitments," said the 24-year-old. "I have learnt from my mistakes and this time I will do things differently. Even dates for commercials will be planned in advance. I will chalk out a training programme with my coach soon. I will focus on training." After completing the season Neeraj is taking a break. His groin strain needs some attention and would spend some time with his family who have joined him in Zurich. "I want to spend some time with them," he said. "My uncle who helped me pursue my dream is here."

Since Neeraj had planned the season well in advance with his coach Klaus, Zurich was the last competition. Also his groin strain too needed attention. "I am taking a break as my family is also here. Also I am coming back from a groin injury and I may not be able to train for a week or so. Under the circumstances, it will be difficult for me to compete at the National Games," he said. As for the season, Neeraj seemed quite satisfied with whatever he could achieve. "Technique-wise I have improved," he said. "Javelin is a technical game. Earlier, I had to put in more effort but the result was not the same. Now with improved technique, I am getting better results without putting in as much effort."

Neeraj also touched upon a sensitive topic of over-expectation from him or any other athlete. " Yehi thodi dikkat hai apne yahaan pe. Gold hi chahiye sabko (That's (tall expectations) a little too much as everyone here wants gold)," he said. "There is a lot of competition in athletics. It's not easy to win. When I won a silver at the Worlds people started saying, why not gold? People should understand it's not easy to win medals at high-level international competitions. With better performance among Indian athletes, expectations too have increased. But we need to support our athletes, no matter what the colour the medal is."

Neeraj is not perturbed by the fact that he could not breach the 90-metre mark. For him securing medals was a priority. "It is just a magical mark," he said. "I am not at all disappointed that I could not breach it. If you throw 90m and don't win medals that also is a problem." Neeraj also said that he would love to see more Indians at such events. He has requested the Athletics Federation of India to help Indian athletes compete abroad in good international events. "I would request the federation to send more and more athletes abroad to quality competitions so that they too can improve and one day I can compete alongside my teammates."

Double impact: Rahane, Jaiswal run feast on Day 2

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @ Chennai

IT was a run fest at Chepauk as West Zone top-order comprising Prithvi Shaw, Yashasvi Jaiswal and Ajinkya Rahane made mince meat of the hapless North East Zone attack as trio's contribution put West in command at 590/2 in 123 overs on the second day of the Duleep Trophy quarterfinal played at MA Chidambaram Stadium on Friday.

Brief scores: West Zone 590/2 in 123 overs (Prithvi Shaw 113, Yashasvi Jaiswal 228, Ajinkya Rahane 207 batting) vs North East Zone.

While Shaw managed a ton (113), Jaiswal (228) and Rahane (207 batting) notched up double centuries each to put their team in a position to dictate terms with the opposition.

When three players get a hundred it is difficult to say whose was the best. But keeping in mind the situation, personal pride and quality of play, Rahane's innings stood out.

Rahane, who was axed from the Indian team, had to show that he had not lost the Midas touch. He had to prove that he still had the hunger and temperament to play a long innings. Although the opposition attack was not great to test a player of his calibre, but 'game time' a phrase often used by the selectors was important in the contest. Rahane was at his sublime best during his 37th First Class century. Cutting, pulling, driving and hooking when ever the opportunity presented. What stood out in his game was his defense. The way he played North East Zone spinners Ankur Malik, Kishan Singha was straight out from the book. Perfect balance, posture and grace marked his game and it was a lesson in footwork for every budding youngster.

"For all of us (century makers) you can't be losing focus at any point. The opposition (attack) may be weaker, but we still play them cautiously. You know, all it takes one good ball to get us back into the dugout again. I think you have to be focused every ball. We try to focus on each and every ball and I think that makes us strong. So we just try and focus on our game and try to do our best each and every day," said Shaw on the trio's approach on Friday.

Shaw, who notched up his 10th First Class hundred and added 206 for the first wicket with Jaiswal looked compact and seemed to have worked on his game. In the past he had been criticized for his poor technique and penchant to play too many shots too early in the innings in red ball cricket.

Ajinkya Rahane (207 batting) & Yashasvi Jaiswal (228) in action against North East Zone on Day 2 of Duleep Trophy in Chennai on Friday | ASHWIN PRASATH

"I think it was about two years back (getting out leaving gap between bat and pad), but after that, I didn't think it happened. After that I worked on it. And now I think I'm fine with it. But obviously sometimes you will get a ball that comes back into you, but I've worked on it and it's helping me quite well," said Shaw, insisting that he worked on his fitness with trainer Vivek Ramakrishna during the off season.

Hokaito Zhimomi captain of North East Zone employed six bowlers. He shuffled his spinners, made them change ends and had no luck in containing the West Zone top order.

"To be honest, if they (North East Zone) are playing at this kind of level, they must have done something good. They have potential that's why they are playing here. The first 20-25 overs they bowled well," said Shaw encouraging the new entrant to Duleep Trophy.

Century for Virat

Puducherry: In Puducherry, young Yash Dhull (35 batting) and Manan Vohra (20 batting) led a strong North Zone reply, cruising to 65 for no loss after East Zone had posted 397 in their first innings, in the other quarterfinal. Resuming at overnight 179 for three, East Zone rode on a fine century by Virat Singh (117) and a 62 by all-rounder Shahbaz Ahmed to reach a first-innings total of 397. Brief scores: East Zone 397 in 136.4 ovs (Virat Singh 117, Shahbaz Ahmed 62, Sudip Kumar Gharami 68, Nishant Sindhu 3/64, Navdeep Saini 3/83) vs North Zone 65/0.

SWIATEK & JABEUR SET FOR MAJOR BATTLE

Poland's Iga Swiatek can win a second Slam of the year while Ons Jabeur has the opportunity to become the first African man or woman to win a Slam in the Open Era. A look at the US Open women's final...

HEAD TO HEAD

ONS JABEUR		IGA SWIATEK
	COUNTRY
TUNISIA		POLAND
28	AGE	21
5	RANKING	1
2	TITLES IN 2022	6
2	H2H	2
0	MAJORS	2

TWO BEST PLAYERS ON TOUR

By ranking it may not be 1 vs 2 but, by other metrics, the final is really 1 vs 2. In 2022, the duo really has been the two best players on tour. They have won eight titles between them and have now filled out the Grand Slam finals on four of the eight possible occasions.

SEMIFINAL RESULTS

Jabeur bt Carolina Garcia 6-1, 6-3, Swiatek bt Aryna Sabalenka 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

POLE'S SERVICE GAMES

One reason why Swiatek has had the success she has had this season is her service. It's durable, effective and seems resistant to pressure. She has won 75.2 % of her serivce games in 2022, fourth among players who have played 40 or more matches.

TUNISIAN SERVICE VS SWIATEK'S RETURNS

Jabeur's run to the final, in part, has been thanks to a service that has given her cheap points. She leads for aces and has a high percentage of first serves won. In final, she has to repeat this. Swiatek tends to break her opponents a lot (she has had 16 bagel sets).

BIG-MATCH TEMPERAMENT

In the final preview, WTA makes the point that the 21-year-old is unflappable in big matches. She has not lost a set in her last nine finals. Having that kind of ice-cool composure in big matches is always a plus. In the only final between then two players, the Italian Open earlier this year, Swiatek coasted past her opponent 6-2, 6-2.

Worlds test awaits Indian wrestlers

The Senior Wrestling World Championships will begin on Saturday with competitions in Greco-Roman style. The show of the Indian wrestlers at the 2022 Commonwealth Games, where they won medals in all 12 weight categories, will have little bearing when they take the mat in Belgrade. A look at their chances...

MEDAL PROSPECTS

MEN'S FREESTYLE

RAVI DAHIYA (57KG, 2ND SEED)

It wouldn't be an exaggeration if the Tokyo Olympic silver medallist is termed the country's biggest medal hope. Since his Worlds debut in 2019 where he bagged bronze and qualified for Olympics, the 24-year-old has always finished on the podium except for the 2020 World Cup. He will be eyeing that elusive gold in the event as only Sushil Kumar had achieved the feat so far that too back in 2010. The other wrestlers to look out are top seed Thomas Gilman of the USA and Alireza Sarlak of Iran.

BAJRANG PUNIA (65KG, 2ND SEED)

Bajrang Punia is the only Indian wrestler to win three Worlds medals (2013 60kg bronze, 2018 65kg silver and 2019 65kg bronze) so far. However, this time, the road to podium would not be easy. Apart from seeded threats, the group has biggest unseeded dark horses in the form of Rahman Amouzad from Iran and USA's Yianni Diakomihalis. The former stunned Olympic bronze medallist earlier this year in the final bout to win Asian gold. Given his seeding, Bajrang could potentially face Vazgen Tevanyan of Armenia in the quarterfinals.

WOMEN'S WRESTLING

VINESH PHOGAT (53KG, UNSEEDED)

Despite her struggles post 2020 Olympics loss last year, the 2019 Worlds bronze medallist recently became the first woman from the country to register a hat-trick of gold at the Birmingham CWG. However, competition will be tough at Worlds. Japan's Akari Fujinami is out after suffering an injury but there are enough wrestlers in the division to make life difficult for the Indian wrestler. Among them are Moldovia's Lulia Leorda, Ecuador's Lucia Yepez Guzman and Sweden's Jonna Malmgrem.

SARITA MOR (57KG, UNSEEDED)

She is the top seed in 59kg but decided to change division in her bid to stake claim in the Olympic weight category, wherein Anshu Malik has been competing for the past couple of years. She is a Worlds veteran as this will be her 7th appearance. Despite regularly competing at the championship, Sarita claimed her first medal in the last edition when she bagged 59kg bronze. Reigning champion Helen Louise Maroulis from USA will be favourite with Olympic bronze medallist Evelina Nikolova from Bulgaria also in the running.

DARK HORSE

Naveen (70kg, unseeded): He won the 74kg gold at the Commonwealth Games but switched his weight category for the Worlds believing the move can increase his chances of a medal. Ernazar Akmataliev from Kazakhstan is top seed in the division followed by Zurabi Iakobishvili from Georgia.

DEEPAK OUT

2019 silver-medallist Deepak Punia has pulled out of the event due to an injury during training. Sanjeet Kundu replaced the 2022 CWG gold medallist in the 86kg weight category.

INDIA SQUAD

Greco-Roman: Arjun Halakurki (55kg), Gyanender (60kg), Neeraj (63kg), Ashu (67kg), Vikas (72kg), Sachin (77kg), Harpreet Singh (82kg), Sunil Kumar (87kg), Deepanshu (97kg), Satish (130kg).

Women's team: Neelam (50kg), Vinesh Phogat (53kg), Sushma Shokeen (55kg), Sarita Mor (57kg), Mansi Ahlawat (59kg), Sonam Malik (62kg), Shifali (65kg), Nisha (68kg), Ritika (72kg), Priyanka (76kg).

Freestyle: Ravi Dahiya (57kg), Pankaj (61kg), Bajrang Punia (65kg), Naveen (70kg), Sagar Jaglan (74kg), Deepak (79kg), Sanjeet Kundu (86kg), Vicky (92kg), Viky (97kg), Dinesh (125kg).

1st service at Chennai Open

ENS @ Chennai

FIVE Indian singles players will be in action in the qualifying rounds of the Chennai Open beginning on Saturday. Rutuja Bhosale, Riya Bhatia, Sowjanya Bavisetti, Sai Chamarthi and Lakshmi Prabha Arunkumar will aim to join both Ankita Raina and Karman Kaur Thandi, who have been handed main draw wildcards. Japan's Yuki Naito is the top seed in the qualifying round which will see 24 women feature. Naito will face Arunkumar, a Tamil Nadu player who has been given a wildcard. The first of the two rounds before the main draw will begin at the SDAT tennis stadium on Saturday morning.

Select matches (only Indians): Nao Hibino (JPN) vs Sai Chamarthi, Sowjanya Bavisetti vs Kyoka Okamura (JPN), Yuki Naito (JPN) vs Lakshmi Arunkumar, Rutuja Bhosale vs En-Shuo Liang (TPE), Justina Mikulskyte (LTU) vs Riya Bhatia.

Garcia, Mertens pull out

As expected, Caroline Garcia, who reached the semifinals of the US Open, has withdrawn from the Chennai Open. It would have been too much for the Frenchwoman to get ready for a tournament half-way across the globe in under five days. Elise Mertens, seeded third, also pulled out of the event. The Belgian, who lost in the first round of the US Open last week, withdrew because of an injury. As a result, Canada's Carol Zhao and Greece's Despina Papamichail are now in the main draw. The top seed is US' Alison Riske, who lost to Garcia in the fourth round of the US Open.

United momentum halted after loss vs Sociedad

MANCHESTER United led English football's tributes to Queen Elizabeth II before their 1-0 defeat against Real Sociedad in the Europa League, while Roma boss Jose Mourinho was in mourning after the monarch's death on Thursday.

United, West Ham and Arsenal players — the Premier League teams in action in Europe's second and third tier tournaments — all wore black armbands after the Queen died aged 96 earlier in the day.

There were sombre atmospheres at Old Trafford and the London Stadium, with United and West Ham both holding a minute's silence prior to kick-off.

West Ham fans sang 'God save the Queen' during their 3-1 win against Romanian side FCSB in the Europa Conference League.

The death of the nation's longest-reigning monarch was announced after Arsenal had already kicked off at FC Zurich, so the Gunners had a minute's silence before the start of the second half of their 2-1 Europa League win.

Former United, Chelsea and Tottenham manager Jose Mourinho paid a sombre tribute to the Queen after Roma's 2-1 Europa League loss at Bulgarian side Ludogorets.

"I'm so sorry. I have lived in England for many years, my family is there," Mourinho told Sky Sport Italy.

Select results: Manchester United 0-1 Real Sociedad, FC Zurich 1-2 Arsenal, Ludogorets 2-1 Roma, Lazio 4-2 Feyenoord.

PL fixtures postponed

All Premier League matches this weekend have been postponed as a mark of respect following the death of Queen Elizabeth II. But it will be business as usual in the other major European leagues.

Stone Age skeleton missing foot may show oldest amputation

The 31,000-year-old skeleton of a young adult found in a cave in Indonesia that is missing its left foot and part of its left leg reveal the oldest known evidence of an amputation, according to a new study

AMPUTATION PERFORMED

Scientists say the amputation was performed when the person was a child—and that the "patient" went on to live for years as an amputee

MEDICAL ADVANCES

The prehistoric surgery could show that humans were making medical advances much earlier than previously thought, according to the study published in the journal Nature

EXPLORING THE CAVE

Researchers were exploring a cave in Borneo, in a rainforest region known for having some of the earliest rock art in the world, when they came across the grave, said Tim Maloney, an archaeologist at Griffith University in Australia and the study's lead researcher. Though much of the skeleton was intact, it was missing its left foot and the lower part of its left leg, he explained

PREVIOUS EXAMPLE OF AMPUTATION

Before this find, the earliest example of amputation had been in a French farmer from

7,000

years ago, who had part of his forearm removed

TOOLS USED TO AMPUTATE

Researchers don't know what kind of tool was used to amputate the limb, or how infection was prevented—but they speculate that a sharp stone tool may have made the cut, and point out that some of the rich plant life in the region has medicinal properties

CARING FOR EACH OTHER'S HEALTH

This study adds to growing evidence that humans started caring for each other's health much earlier in their history

DEDUCING THE BONES

After examining the remains, the researchers concluded the foot bones weren't missing from the grave, or lost in an accident—they were carefully removed

A CLEAN CUT

The remaining leg bone showed a clean, slanted cut that healed over, Maloney said. There were no signs of infection, which would be expected if the child had gotten its leg bitten off by a creature like a crocodile

NO SIGNS OF A CRUSHING FRACTURE

And there were also no signs of a crushing fracture, which would have been expected if the leg had snapped off in an accident

LIVING AFTER LOSING A LEG

The person appears to have lived for around six to nine more years after losing the limb, eventually dying from unknown causes as a young adult, researchers say

PERFORMING SURGERY

This shows that the prehistoric foragers knew enough about medicine to perform the surgery without fatal blood loss or infection, the authors concluded

CARING FOR THE CHILD

The community would have had to care for the child for years afterward, since surviving the rugged terrain as an amputee wouldn't have been easy

EU BRAINSTORMS TO TACKLE ENERGY COST SURGE

In an emergency meeting, ministers talked about overcoming differing views on proposals to make gas affordable

ENERGY

BRUSSELS: The European Union on Friday intensified its mission to shield the population from dramatically increasing energy prices that threaten to plunge millions into cold and poverty over the winter as tensions mount with Russia over the war in Ukraine.

The energy ministers of the EU's 27 nations gathered in an emergency meeting and hoped to overcome differing views on proposals to bring natural gas and electricity prices back to affordability. The measures range from windfall levies on oil and gas companies whose profits have risen along with skyrocketing prices to setting a price cap on Russian gas.

Several ministers underlined that reaching an agreement would not be easy, given each country's energy mixes, supplies and needs, but they conceded that time is of the essence if the most vulnerable people across Europe are to receive timely assistance. Russia has cut back supplies of natural gas that power factories, generate electricity and heat homes, driving up energy prices to record highs and fueling inflation that is poised to tip Europe into recession later this year. "The big interference here is from the Russian government. They, through their acts, have used gas as a weapon of war," Irish Transport, Environment and Climate Minister Eamon Ryan told reporters in Brussels. "We have to intervene because the whole market has been played with."

Ryan insisted that action must be taken "within weeks, not months." He said that this coming fall, "when we're really going to see the high prices having effect, that's when we need the support, that's when we need to get some of that money." The ministers might agree to provide support to struggling energy companies forced to buy supplies at inflated prices and back measures on ways to impose reductions in electricity use similar to those already agreed on gas. "There is no time to wait, and we have to be swift and united," said Jozef Sikela, industry minister of the Czech Republic, which was chairing Friday's meeting.

Despite the urgency, with several northern nations feeling the first chill in the morning air announcing the onset of autumn, the ministers will only give guidelines to the EU's executive branch, the European Commission, which will present a proposal for the member states next week. At that point, the EU nations will reassess again, and the hope is that a decision can be made early next month. The commission has already called for a price cap on Russian natural gas and is seeking a "solidarity contribution" from European oil and gas companies that have made extraordinary profits from the rise in energy costs. German Energy Minister Robert Habeck said it's important to find a way to uncouple natural gas prices from costs of all other forms of energy, particularly relatively cheap renewables, "without destroying the market mechanisms."

Hurricane makes landfall in Mexico

DISASTER

Hurricane Kay made landfall on a sparsely populated peninsula on Mexico's Pacific coast Thursday before weakening into a tropical storm as it traveled on a path forecasters said might bring its rains to southernmost California by the weekend. The storm's maximum sustained winds weakened to near 110 kph, and Kay was expected to continue weakening in the coming hours. The eye of the storm came ashore as a hurricane near Bahia Asuncion in Baja California Sur state. Kay was forecast to move back out over cooler water, weakening it. The US National Hurricane Centre in Miami said there was a chance the outer bands of the big storm could bring heavy rain—and possibly flash floods—to parts of scorched Southern California and southwestern Arizona on Friday night and Saturday. The centre said Kay was centred about 50 km east of Punta Eugenia on Thursday. Kay was moving north-northwest at 22 kph. A meteorologist said storm was expected to affect San Diego County with somewhat less strength than a storm.

Celebrating KK

Musicians Kunal Ganjawala and Zubeen Garg will take the stage for a concert in memory of celebrated playback singer KK

TUNIR BISWAS

A little over three months ago, India lost one of its vocal cords with the untimely passing of Krishnakumar Kunnath, known simply as KK. The celebrated singer, who was 53 years old, collapsed in a hotel after his concert at Kolkata's Nazrul Mancha. The entire country's music scene plunged into deafening silence. When you're a singer who has contributed to music in various languages, including Hindi, Tamil, Telugu and Kannada, you're celebrated by many.

Kunal Ganjawala

Zubeen Garg

After KK's passing, many concerts were organised in his tribute. One such concert, Sing for KK, has been organised on September 10, '22, at Bhartiya Mall. Celebrated musicians, including Kunal Ganjawala and Zubeen Garg, will be present at the event. Members of his family shall be there as well.

"It's tough to describe what KK meant for me. He was a friend and an older brother. I must have met him only around 10 times in the last two decades, but our bond was 'no strings attached'. It wasn't a forced friendship. Even if we met five years later, we would just pick up from where we left off," says Ganjawala, who met KK for the first time around 1996 when the former was doing his first big-time recording.

"Not many know this, but when he got signed by Sony Music, during those days various music producers used to work with record labels in Delhi, KK turned them on to me. So, I got those 7-8 eight recordings due to his recommendation which built my confidence as an artiste," shares Ganjawala, who worked with KK on various songs, including O Humdum Suniyo Re from Saathiya (2002).

Zubeen Garg, who has sung popular songs like Ya Ali (Gangster) and Dil Tu Hi Bataa (Krrish 3), met KK several times in studios. "Even though we saw each other very often, I met him for the first time in 1996 at a club. Since then, we have frequented each other in studios over the last couple of decades. The last time I saw KK was in Kolkata two years ago when we had shows in the same venue. I was going out, and he followed me and took the stage," says Garg, who had made a duet with KK for a song called Teri Tamanna from the movie The Train (2007).

This tribute concert has been organised by Bengaluru-based record label Alive India, which was founded in 2012. Supratiek Ghosh, the founder, was discussing with KK about arranging a concert for the 10th anniversary of Alive India only a few hours before the latter passed away.

"I was shocked when I heard the news. For the first few days, I was not in a good shape. We've shared a close relationship for years, and his death took a toll on me. I have so many memories of working with him and watching him work. As a musician, few are as professional as KK was," says Ghosh, who is also the singer of the Bengaluru-based band AURKO.

WINNING STREAK

Divita Rai, Liva Miss Diva Universe '22, who was in B'luru, has been eyeing the crown since she was 18. She shares behind-the-scenes moments with CE

MONIKA MONALISA

DRESSED in a black gown, Divita Rai, Liva Miss Diva India Universe 2022, who was in Bengaluru for her homecoming, had a sense of satisfaction. The 23-year-old beauty pageant winner was poised, calm and didn't hesitate to answer any sort of question, including one about a scar on her face, which she got in her childhood.

The wish to represent India on a global platform was so strong in her that Rai has been trying her luck at winning the pageant since she was 18 years old. But a few weeks ago when she finally won the crown, needless to say, she was extra emotional. "When I wore the crown, I tried hard not to break down. But no amount of preparation was enough for that moment. I just wanted to be present at that moment and acknowledge the emotions," recalls Rai.

Considering the current Miss Universe is Miss India Harnaaz Kaur Sandhu, Rai says she doesn't feel the pressure. "I see two different personalities representing India in the best possible way. I don't look at it as pressure but probably more eyes are looking at me and that excites me," explains Rai.

With her father, Dilip Rai, being an ex-employee of Indian Oil, Rai got to live in different cities – Kolkata, Bhopal, Bengaluru and Mumbai. While one of the biggest cons of this setup is leaving your friends when you move to a different city, Rai says the first thing she learnt was adaptability. "You are so new to everything. Being thrown into a new environment, you have to introduce yourself to new people, and prove yourself again. So you learn to handle different environments," says Rai, adding that one of the biggest perks was learning many sports like basketball and swimming.

During her stint in Bengaluru, she and her family lived in Vasanth Nagar. Ask her for her favourite hangouts and she says, "Plan B was great. There is this place called Desserted in Vasanth Nagar. They have really great honey chilli fries."

She often receives compliments for her good skin, for which she credits her Mangalurean genes. But there is an elaborate skincare routine that she follows. "I remove all the make-up before I go to bed and it takes a good half an hour. I do a deep clean and let it breathe. Then massage with castor oil or argan oil. I drink a lot of water and eat right. The moment I eat a lot of processed food, it shows on my skin," she elaborates.

GOMUKHASANA VARIATION I

(COW FACE POSE WITH EAGLE ARMS)

In Sanskrit, 'go' means cow, 'mukha' means face and asana means pose. It is a variation of Gomukhasana (Cow Face Pose) with the alignment of the arms in the front of the upper body in eagle arms position. It is a seated version of Garudasana (Eagle Pose) without the twist of the legs.

STEPS

- Start in the Shoelace pose. Stay in the pose for 5-6 breaths, and feel the lower body comfortably aligned and the upper body alert to take the eagle arms positioning. Stretch the arms out in front.
- As you inhale, spread the arms away from the shoulders and expand the chest. Exhale, brings the arms together as if hugging, placing the left outer elbow on the right inner elbow, stretching the shoulders, and twisting the arms at the elbows. Slowly wrap the left hand (wrist and fingers) around the right palm, to look like this at Hasta Garuda Close Up (Eagle Arms Close-up).
- Stretching the shoulders to hold the arms in an interlock and bring it at eye level at the center of the body. Stay for 4-6 breaths as you keep your eyes closed and focus on breathing.
- To release, exhale and loosen the arms and bring them down. Realign in Shoelace pose. Practise the other side too. Finally, relax in Dandasana.

BENEFITS

- Tones the hamstrings, inner thighs, and groin.
- Strengthens the ligaments and softer tissues. Open the limb at the knee. Elongates the torso and abdominal area.
- Tones and activates the hips, ankles and knee joints.
- Releases the pelvic stiffness and heals weakness in the knee.
- Cures ailments of the urogenital system like infertility, erectile dysfunction, urinary-incontinence.
- Cures polycystic ovaries and inflamed prostate glands.
- Stimulates the endocrine glands and the kidneys.
- Enhances blood circulation to the digestive system.
- Burns the unnecessary fat in the tummy area. Good for postnatal women, dancers, gymnasts and athletes.

LIMITATIONS

People with injuries in hips, knee, lower back, or ankles, recent surgeries in spine, pregnant women during 2nd and 3rd trimester, and senior citizens with weak joints should avoid this.

'DROWN' IT OUT!

RUBINATIONS
Rubi Chakravarti
Writer, actor and funny girl

I FLEW into my beloved water-logged city. From the clouds above, thunder rattled the aircraft windows as little children howled with fear. I was asked by various news channels to give a byte on the prevailing situation and I flatly refused. What could I have told them which has not already been said before? Bengaluru was once a city of lakes. In fact many names of localities and roads still bear the suffix 'tank' to it. To the lay person not even a trickle of water is visible leave alone a lake or tank. There has been an unholy nexus of the 'men in white' the builders and the local civic body to put their abhorrent signatures and seals on illegal documents and then retire.

Whether a person of lower or higher income occupies a dwelling, a fierce loyalty is evident in both. In a country like ours, the most important thing is to have a roof over one's head. I have noticed that abroad, people pack up their belongings in a U-haul and move cities. Not so in our neck of the woods. If we buy or occupy a house, we proceed to make it a home. Many people have spoken about inadequate drainage, lack of infrastructure etc etc (all true), but if one goes to a reputed builder and pays an arm and a leg for a dwelling then one assumes all the necessary paper-work is in order. One may call it naïve, but honestly, there is no transparency in any civic office and getting to the relevant documents is a nightmare. Instead of just blaming the hapless owners, the person who approved the landfill has to be penalised too and fat chance of that happening right? This time the people living in more upmarket areas were affected. They made arrangements to save themselves. If we saw pictures of the less fortunate with their belongings and houses awash, rest assured the 'men-in-white' would have congregated for a photo-op and to make false promises. But fortunate or not...everyone's belongings was floating in the flood waters.

Constantly moaning and no entertainment makes Jill a dull girl I have been told. I was advised that moping about a 'cuddle-bundle' I left behind in Mumbai is a useless exercise. So with no further persuasion needed, I accepted an invitation from the charming Madhav Sehgal, (GM of the Leela Palace), to join him for an exclusive repast curated by the talented Sarah Todd (Australia Master-Chef winner). The dinner was superb with the young Sarah audaciously using Indian spices and techniques to enhance a predominantly French fare. Our table had an interesting mix of people and the superb wine pairings added to the raucous banter. The floods were truly forgotten!

In the two days that I have been back it's been a Sarah Todd on both days! This time the charming Kanchan Achpal Kinger invited us to her massive new Smoor Chocolate outlet in the swish CBD area, to catch Sarah Todd and her in-house chef Avijit, conduct a chocolatier master-class. World-class brands are making a bee-line into our city and it's truly wonderful! Now if only our pathetic infra-structure could match up to the 'wold-class title...that would be just dandy!

A poor mind 'drowns' in excuses. A rich mind 'drowns' in solutions.

Martini, the new favourite

JAMES Bond's favourite drink was the martini – shaken not stirred. In keeping with his choice, the new favourite in Bangalore bars, among both ladies and gentlemen, is the martini in all its various avatars, from vodka to gin martinis and dry martinis. Get the drift?

The martini is made with gin and vermouth, and garnished with an olive or a lemon twist. Over the years, the martini has become one of the best-known mixed alcoholic beverages. A variation, the vodka martini, uses vodka instead of gin for the cocktail's base spirit.

The exact origin of the martini is unclear. The name may derive from the martini brand of vermouth. Another theory suggests it may have evolved from a cocktail called Martinez served at the Occidental Hotel in San Francisco, which people frequented before taking an evening ferry to the nearby town of Martinez. Residents of Martinez, however, say a bartender in their town created the drink.

A dry martini is made with little or no vermouth. Ordering a martini 'extra dry' will result in even less or no vermouth added. Over the course of the 20th century, the amount of vermouth steadily dropped. During the 1930s, the ratio was 3:1 (gin to vermouth), and during the 1940s, the ratio was 4:1. During the latter part of the 20th century, 5:1 or 6:1 the dry martini became the norm. A really dry variation, The Montgomery can go all the way to 15:1 and is said to be named after Field Marshal Montgomery who is supposed to have insisted on attacking only when infinitely numerically superior.

In recent years, a lot of bars have concocted many variations, using fresh fruits or flavour additives.

LUCKY MAN

Cast: Puneeth Rajkumar, Krishna, Sangeetha Sringeri, Roshni Prakash, Nagabhushana and Sadhu Kokila

Director: Nagendra Prasad

APPU AS PARAMATHMA STRIKES AN EMOTIONAL CHORD

A SHARADHAA

LUCKY Man is all about the power of human emotions. Especially, when it has a beloved departed actor (Puneeth Rajkumar) playing a major character. In the romantic fantasy directed by Nagendra Prasad, Puneeth appears as Paramatma (God), and the portrayal hits the right chord with the audience and takes us on a trip down memory lane, recalling his life.

An official remake of Oh My Kadavule, Lucky Man has time travel at its centre. Arjun Nagappa (Krishna) gets married to his friend Anu (Sangeetha Sringeri) but things don't go as planned, and they decide that divorce is the only way to go. Arjun, who is caught in the predicament, is spotted by God (Puneeth Rajkumar), who offers to help him. God gives him a second chance to change his past. Will Arjun get 'lucky' in marriage and win in life? Will childhood best friends become good life partners? Answers this good feel entertainer.

RATING 3.5/5

Choreographer-actor Nagendra Prasad manages to get everyone's attention right in his first attempt at direction. Without disturbing the original script, (excluding a fight scene of Puneeth), Lucky Man succeeds in delivering interesting perspectives about life, friendship, love, and marriage.

Dialogues penned by Manju Mandavya add value to the script. A couple of good songs from the music director V2 Vijay Vicky, especially the dance number with Puneeth and Prabhudeva are an added attraction.

Actor Krishna delivers a complete performance. Be it a friend, lover or husband, he fits perfectly into all phases of the character. His combination with Puneeth is also a delight to watch. Sangeetha Sringeri delivers a mature performance while Roshini Prakash shines in a strong role. Sadhu Kokila and Nagabhushan make the most of the opportunity with their comedy timing. Rangayana Raghu as Arjun's father-in-law beautifully delivers all the emotions. Sundar Raj and Sudha Belawadai as parents Arjun's parents bring their support to the film.

Puneeth Rajkumar's special appearance as God, and his voice that enhances the dialogues elevate the experience of watching the film. It was quite a emotional sight to see his fans leaving the theatres with teary eyes shouting 'Appu anna vapas banni' (Appu please come back).

SHILAJIT MITRA

IT'S been a long, winding, patience-annihilating road to Brahmastra. I was in college when murmurs of Ayan Mukerji's superhero fantasy epic first began (today, I'm practically middle-aged). If personal testimonies don't count, think of all that's transpired in the world since the official announcement of the film. Think of Brexit, #MeToo, Trump, Biden, Ukraine, and Afghanistan. Think of the ravages of Covid-19. Cultural historians would do well to divide our era into pre and post-Brahmastra. Heck, even the Queen has died before this lumbering production could ride into town.

And what of Bollywood? - you might rightfully ask. The rules were radically different when producer Karan Johar's 400-crore-plus (estimated) bet went on floors. The Marvel behemoth, having already captured the West, was tightening its grip on the Indian subcontinent. The idea of a homegrown 'Astraverse'—broken into three parts, and combining Indian mythology with the sort of best-in-class visual effects superhero franchises are known for—was promising enough. But then covid happened and viewers retreated to their homes. They returned, of course, but largely for RRR and KGF: Chapter 2—immense, reality-shattering Southern spectacles, films with scale and gall and not an entitled bone in their body. These aren't shoes Brahmastra was conceived to fill.

Ayan begins his film aggressively, springing a 'surprise appearance' most already know the secret to (hint: it features a scientist who goes by Mohan Bhargav). The Wake Up Sid director then withdraws to home turf, tracing the love story of Shiva (Ranbir Kapoor), an orphaned, good-hearted DJ, and Isha (Alia Bhatt), a rich girl he encounters at a Durga Puja festival and is instantly transfixed by. Since Alia played 'Sita' to Ram Charan's Rama Raju in RRR, it's only natural that she becomes the 'Parvati' of Shiva's story. After all, if there's one thing that ties the North and South cinemas together, it's our tendency to spell out mythic symbolisms to the audience.

Like Harry Potter, a character he's clearly modeled on, Shiva has a higher path to follow. He's been having visions, marked by sudden, violent seizures. "There are some ancient powers, some astras..." he explains to Isha, who asks few questions and comes along for the ride. The couple land up first in Varanasi, approaching elusive archaeologist Anish Shetty (Nagarjuna), and then in the Himalayas, where Arvind (Amitabh Bachchan) is the guru of the 'Brahmansh', an ancient secret society protecting and harnessing divine weapons. The deadliest of these, split up into three cookie-shaped parts, is the world-obliterating Brahmastra, which a cult of rappers—what else do you call villains named Raftaar, Zor and Junoon (Mouni Roy)?—want to steal.

BRAHMASTRA

Cast: Ranbir Kapoor, Alia Bhatt, Amitabh Bachchan, Nagarjuna, Mouni Roy, Chaitanya Sharma

Director: Ayan Mukerji

THIS 'ASTRAVERSE' MOVIE CLAPS EPIC VISUALS ON A GENERIC PLOT

DNEG, one of the world's leading VFX houses, has tooled on Brahmastra. It's easily the most effects-heavy Hindi film ever made (and the highest-budgeted one as well). Ayan fills the screen with trails, shockwaves and all sorts of particle effects. The astras, once maxed out, beam up behind their bearers as giant luminous animal shapes—like beasts out of an anime. The art style favours the extravagant over the realistic. This isn't a fault per se, though I wish certain ideas were fleshed out better (a truck collision with the Nandi bull lacks the desired thump).

You'll cherish the action scenes, for every time Brahmastra settles into its story beats, it's a snooze. Shiva's is the same generic origin story you've heard a thousand times over. The screenplay has a rigid, yawn-inducing rhythm. Ayan has barely landed a plot point or emotion than he rushes us to the next. Take the scene where Guru-ji is exhorting Shiva to stay on in the 'Brahmansh'. In less than two minutes, Shiva has rejected the offer, walked away, turned, changed his decision and is on his way to embracing his destiny. Almost nothing is allowed to simmer. The dialogue, primarily Bachchan's, is a pain — "Main tumhe DJ se Dragon bana dunga", "Sahi waqt ko aane mein bhi waqt lagta hai", "Meri baaton ka saboot, Shiva ke haaton mein hai", "'Off' se 'On' ho jayo... apna button dhund ke."

RATING 2.5/5

Ranbir, turning 40 this month, fits impressively into the role of a Disneyesque hero. He's the only major Hindi film actor who can suggest unstrained innocence so well. Alia has had such a major screen year (in Gangubai Kathiawadi, RRR and Darlings) that Isha feels like a picnic job. Surprisingly, in such a packed ensemble, it's Mouni Roy who walks away with the best bits. Her Junoon is the only threatening presence in the film; the other villains, bearded and kohl-eyed, look like failed caricature attempts.

A clue to Brahmastra lies in the big action set-piece it offers at the start. Ayan knows that no matter how hard he tries, we're still miles from matching the levels of Hollywood fare. Thus, he plays to a strength that's unique to Hindi films. The 'astra' of Bollywood isn't budgets or VFX or quasi-mythological deep dives. It's something far more simple and instinctual. It's fandom.
